Snow Still Blocking Food Airlift

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Snow still blocked today a food airlift for 500 hardy people isolated for 10 days in remote Northern California canyons by the West Coast's "flood of a thousand years."

The Christmas week deluge dealt $1 billion in damage in five states where 15,000 families remain homeless.

The isolated residents of the Klamath and Salmon River canyons near the California-Oregon boundary are not in immediate critical need but are running low on food, a civil defense spokesman reported at Yreka.

He said a forest service helicopter pilot succeeded yesterday in making a reconnaissance flight into the isolated towns of Sawyers Bar, T-Bar, and Forks of Salmon.

Twelve persons were evacuated from T-Bar, a forest ranger station wrecked by the Klamath's flood waters.

A massive recovery effort was pushed in the five flood-distressed states of California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Nevada.

"As far as the real emergency—that's over right now," said Jim Morrison, civil defense spokesman at Eureka in California's hard-hit Humboldt County.

"They're getting back down into the towns now and starting to dig out," said Morrison. "No more people want to be evacuated. They want to be sustained where they are."

The flood, described by Department of Interior water specialists as probably the greatest ever experienced in the West, caused 19 known deaths in California and 18 in Oregon.

It carved federally designated disaster areas out of northern California, Oregon and Washington, where federal, local and charitable organizations are running emergency recovery centers on a "for-the-duration" basis.

California's damage was estimated at upwards of 500-million dollars.

In Oregon, many evacuees returned to devastation left by the Willamette River. Oregon's damage totaled 315 million dollars in what Gov. Mark Hatfield terms his state's worst disaster.

In Washington, latest state to be added to the disaster list by President Johnson, most high-water problems have ended. No persons are known to be stranded.

In Idaho and Nevada, snow or cold weather prevailed, replacing flood conditions unusual for those areas. Rivers neared normal levels.

The 50-odd helicopters which evacuated 600 persons in Humboldt County and Oregon City, Ore., have begun to supply full-time airlifts, except for unexpected emergency medical evacuations.

Disaster workers say towns remain isolated because of demolished highways.

"So many roads are out," said Tom Stowe, a Red Cross spokesman, "that the emergency stage will last longer than normal. Probably we'll have to locate temporary housing in many cases."

The U.S. Forest Service is airlifting specialists to appraise needs of the lumber and plywood industries in the Western states.

Humboldt County in northern California, which the Red Cross and OEP both term the hardest-hit area in the west, bases 60 per cent of its economy on redwood lumber.

Officials could give no estimate on how soon they could repair major highways washed out by the floods. U.S. 101, the main link between California and Oregon, was washed out in many places. U.S. 199, linking Oregon to the interior, was described as "nothing but cliffs" in some places by observers.

Except for U.S. 101, most major roads remained open today.

Interstate 80 was carrying traffic but chains were required from Monte Vista into Nevada. Snow was falling this morning. There was 77 inches of snow on the ground at Donner Summit, 72 inches at Soda Springs, 54 at Kingvale and 38 at Cisco.

U.S. 50 over Echo Summit was open only to passenger cars, buses and light delivery trucks. Tire chains were required as snow was falling.

Interstate 5 was open into Oregon and Washington.

Highway 41 from Fresno is open into Yosemite National Park and to the Badger Pass ski area. Tire chains are required from Oakhurst.

Yosemite Park reported 3 inches of snow overnight, bringing the depth at Badger Pass to 70 inches, and putting 18 inches on the valley floor.

Stubborn Clouds Likely To Dampen New Year's Revel

More Marin Snow Expected; Flood, Mud Relaxing Grip

The rain slowed down in Marin today, and its impact on the normal routine of things appeared to be tapering off, but the Weather Bureau said the stubborn storm would continue right into the New Year.

San Rafael received .51 of an inch of rain from noon yesterday to noon today. No other point in the county reported as much as a half-inch for the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m.

Minimum temperatures early today ranged from a freezing 32 degrees in Novato to 45 degrees in Fairfax.

Snow, which appeared on Mount Tamalpais yesterday and the day before, was given a good chance of returning. The Weather Bureau predicted snow at levels as low as 500 feet in northwest California.

Effects of the storm on city streets, county roads and public utilities seemed to have slackened off. Reports from most of the people concerned with such problems were summed up by Marin County Public Works Director Donald Frost, who said "as of yesterday, we seem to be getting pretty well caught up."

San Rafael Public Works Director Norris Rawles said his street crews have been busy with "nuisance" problems only in recent days, with no night call-outs.

"We have been very fortunate that our drainage has worked so well," he added.

Hail followed yesterday's non-stop snow flurry on Mount Tamalpais, but it all melted too fast for youngsters at the 666th Radar Squadron housing area to make the most of it.

The five-day forecast issued today said there will be rain at times, with snow at higher levels, through the weekend in northern and central California.

Small craft warnings continued in effect today from Point Reyes north to Oregon.

Rainfall readings in Marin, from 8 a.m. yesterday to 8 a.m. today, included:

Alpine Lake, .45 of an inch; Lagunitas, .4; Fairfax and Bon Tempe Lake, .35; San Anselmo, .27; Larkspur, .26; Chevy Chase, .25; Ross, .23; Kent Lake, .21; Santa Venetia, .2; Woodacre and Tamalpais Valley, .19; Novato, .18; Sausalito and Mill Valley, .15; Nicasio and Point Reyes Station, .12.

Marinites Offer Help For Victims

The Marin County office of Disaster and Civil Defense has received several calls from Marin residents during the past week offering help for Northern California flood victims.

Mrs. Davina Kosh, assistant to Deputy Director Jean Smith, reported today that the response has been heart-warming. But there is not much Marin residents can do, mainly because of washed-out roads in the flood area, she said.

There have been offers of clothing, blankets, trucks with drivers and even path-finding from a man who did survey work in the area.

Offers of blankets and clothing have been referred to the Salvation Army and Red Cross.

Clothing Drive Sites Announced

Warm clothing and blankets for Northern California flood victims may be left at either of the two Novato fire stations. Fire Chief George Cavallero said today.

Tramway Traps Novato Family

A Novato mother and her four children could laugh about it today, but all admitted that they were "scared to death" as they hung in a small tram 35 feet over the swirling waters of the American River for four hours during a snowstorm Monday.

Mrs. George N. Borgman, and her four children, Marc, 10; Gina, 7; Andrea, 6, and Lucia, 4, of 8 Maestro Road, Novato, were caught in a small cage of the private tramway over the American River near Whitehall, El Dorado County about 3 p.m. Monday. The temperature was 24 degrees.

The family had gone for a four-day outing at the cabin near Whitehall of a friend, James Snyder of Kentfield. The tram, also owned by Snyder, is used to take visitors across the river.

Mrs. Borgman and the four children, were in the 4-by-6 foot tram cage, halfway across, when the pulley jumped the cable. Borgman was ashore, operating the tram.

They had with them two sleeping bags. All five squeezed into the bags to keep from freezing, while Borgman went for help.

He had bad luck driving through snow and over ice. First the right rear tire chain of his car broke, then the left one.

Eventually he found a highway patrolman who summoned the sheriff by radio. A nearby Pacific Gas and Electric Co. crew heard the broadcast and came to help. Luckily they had all equipment needed to repair the pulley and cable.

All the children burst into smiles when they were safely ashore.

"They were all ready to go back across the river to the cabin," Mrs. Borgman said. However, the PG&E crewmen told them the power might go off anytime and advised against it.

Residents of nearby Whitehall opened the Whitehall Lodge. There the family was given hot food and coffee.

"My money couldn't buy anything," Borgman said, thanking the people.

Coins, Rocks Fatal For Museum's Seal

Easter, a harbor seal adopted by the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum in 1961, is dead. More than two pounds of coins and rocks were found in his stomach in an autopsy yesterday.

The museum's acting director, Mrs. Clara Evans, said today the coins and rocks were thrown to the animal by visitors to the museum despite signs prohibiting such actions. The seal playfully caught and swallowed them without discrimination, she said.

The autopsy was performed by Dr. Robert M. Bramman of the San Rafael Animal Hospital.

Navy Recruit Dies Of Spinal Meningitis

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A Texas recruit died yesterday of spinal meningitis, the Navy reported.

He was Howard Wayne Broyles, 18, of Dallas. He was taken from the Navy Training Center to the Naval Hospital Christmas Eve.

He said the coins caused the seal's death Monday afternoon.

The seal was found on a Sausalito beach and taken to the museum when it was a baby just after Easter in 1961. A special pool was built for it.

Birthday parties were held for the seal each year. It was the museum's star attraction.

Petaluma Driver Cut In Accident

Louis O. Bonomi, 48, of Petaluma, was treated last night at Novato General Hospital for cuts on his hand, leg and forehead suffered in a three-car collision at Highway 101 and De Long Avenue, Novato.

The California Highway Patrol reported a southbound car driven by Roger K. Hillman, 31, of 820 Reichert Avenue, Novato, turned left in front of the northbound car of Jack A. Smith, 39, of Alameda. Smith's car hit Hillman's. Bonomi's auto, following Smith's, crashed into the tangle.

Viet Town Recaptured; Losses High

BINH NGHIA, South Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese troops recaptured this crowded Catholic refugee town at noon today after losing nearly a whole Ranger battalion in winning it back from the Viet Cong.

Two American Ranger advisers were captured by the Communists, more than 60 Vietnamese troops were killed, more than 100 wounded and more than 100 missing in the fight to drive out the equivalent of about a regiment of the Red guerrillas.

A partial count showed 32 Viet Cong dead.

A U.S. Ranger captain was snatched from the jaws of death when an armed American helicopter swooped down to him in the face of the intense enemy fire and lifted him out of the battle. The captain was surrounded by Viet Cong when rescued.

But while the Vietnamese flag rose again over the town, 40 miles east of Saigon, the action was not necessarily over. Viet Cong patrols were reported pressing around several military outposts in the area.

Vietnamese fighter planes and armed helicopters were throwing hundreds of pounds of high explosives into suspected Viet Cong positions.

"They haven't gone far away," a U.S. adviser commented. "They could come back again tonight."

Binh Nghia has been attacked four times this year by the Communists, possibly because it is a Catholic village filled with 6,000 refugees from North Viet Nam. The refugees' morale is high and U.S. advisers say Binh Nghia is the model village in the province. They felt that the Viet Cong might be trying to break its spirit.

The captive Americans were U.S. enlisted men.

Two other U.S. soldiers, members of the Special Forces, were killed last night in another action 30 miles north of Saigon. Their deaths brought to 241 the number of Americans killed in combat since December 1961.

HOSPITAL SEEKING EXPANSION PERMIT

Terra Linda Plans Encounter Doubts As City Planning Commission Airing

Terra Linda Valley Hospital last night asked approval of plans which would change it from a special rehabilitation hospital to a general hospital.

The San Rafael Planning Commission withheld decision on a request to add a surgery wing to the hospital until a preliminary report on a survey of hospital needs and plans in the Terra Linda area can be presented.

The study is being made by the health facilities planning committee of the Marin Council of Community Services, whose survey of county-wide hospital needs and plans is expected to be complete in February.

San Rafael General Hospital Foundation owns seven acres across Highway 101 from Terra Linda, where it plans to relocate from downtown San Rafael. Kaiser Foundation has purchased a hospital site in developer Douglas M. Christensen's Northgate North, in the city portion of Terra Linda.

The commission set Jan. 12 to decide on the surgery wing and hear a preliminary report on the Terra Linda hospital situation.

Several commissioners had reservations about the project. "This hospital was put through on an emergency basis two years ago to handle cases from the county farm," which was being condemned, said Commissioner Charles J. Hendrickson. "What you're asking for here is not what we were sold originally."

The surgery wing would make Terra Linda Valley Hospital a general hospital, admitted Dr. Rafael G. Duffy Jr., administrator, but he said it would be used primarily for the hospital's

But No Alarm On Fill

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Projects now planned for San Francisco Bay tidelands could increase their valuation nearly a hundredfold, the San Francisco Bay Conservation Study Commission was told today.

Yet with all that increase, said State Sen. J. Eugene McAteer (D-San Francisco), the commission chairman, the amount of fill would be too small to warrant the alarm created by talk of a bay fill moratorium.

Griffenhagen-Kroeger, Inc., a San Francisco consultant firm, presented the commission with a $6,500 study report at a meeting in the State Building here today.

Present tax return from tidelands in the nine counties bordering the bay is negligible, the report said; but with completion of planned projects, it would be considerable.

Marin County has the highest percentage of assessed valuation in tidelands, yet it is only one-third of one per cent, the

John Wayne Conquers Cancer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Movie hero John Wayne, conqueror of two Jims, thousands of movie Indians and Western bad men, says he now has conquered the great killer—cancer.

"Big Duke," 57, once a five-pack-a-day smoker of unfiltered cigarettes, said a recent hospital stay was for removal of a lung malignancy.

The official statement at the time was that an abscess had been removed from his lung.

"I licked the Big C," the all-time movie boxoffice king grinned yesterday.

"That's what my doctors tell me."

"I told them: 'Don't lie to me.' And they know me damn well enough to know they hadn't better."

Wayne returns to work Jan. 4 in Durango, Mexico, on "The Sons of Katie Elder."

Russell Asks Viet Re-Evaluation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell says he wants a re-evaluation of the U.S. position in South Viet Nam. The Senate Armed Services Committee which he heads will examine the Viet Nam and Congo situations early in the new session of Congress.

"I thought we made a terrible mistake getting involved in Viet Nam," the Georgia Democrat said in an interview.

"I don't know just how we can get out now, but the time is about at hand when we must re-evaluate our position," Russell said.

"We cannot support the present regime in Saigon unless they are able to attract popular support out in the rice paddies and the villages."

Russell, a 30-year veteran of military affairs, said he was not "impressed by proposals to bomb these jungle trails."

Post For Ex-Tennessee Governor?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reports circulated today in political, government and farm circles that President Johnson will name former Tennessee Gov. Buford Ellington, 57, as secretary or under-secretary of agriculture.

Some sources said Ellington, a Democrat, may be named to a high advisory post at the White House. The Federal Bureau of Investigation reportedly was making a check on him of the type that is routine for possible appointees to high government posts.

Ellington returned to Tennessee last night after visiting Johnson at his Texas ranch. He said he usually makes such a visit during the holidays. In reply to a question, he said he had no plans to leave Tennessee at this time.

Neither Secretary Orville L. Freeman nor Undersecretary Charles S. Murphy has indicated any intention to resign. Nor has Johnson given an indication that he wants either of them to quit.

Twin Faces Murder Charge

Alhambra (AP)—Timothy Nicholson, 22, faces trial on a murder charge in connection with the gunshot death of his twin brother, Todd.

Municipal Judge F. E. Butler released Timothy on $27,500 bail after preliminary hearing yesterday. Witnesses testified that Timothy and his brother argued before the shooting last Dec. 8.

A detective said Timothy told him he was holding a .22-caliber rifle when it fired a bullet into the floor.

Timothy said a second shot struck Todd in the heart.

The shooting took place in their luxurious apartment in Temple City.

They had extensive property holdings in San Diego and Phoenix, reportedly dividing a million-dollar inheritance at 18.

Champion Says Brown Will Run Again

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Gov. Brown's closest adviser and political confidante has no doubt of his boss' future plans — the governor will try for a third term in 1966.

"I flatly predict right now that the governor will run for a third term," said Finance Director Hale Champion in an interview on Sacramento Educational television station KVIE.

And if Brown is re-elected, said Champion, it is "highly likely" he will complete the term.

Champion also took the wraps off parts of the program Brown will present to the legislature in his message Tuesday.

He disclosed for the first time that he has recommended that

Brown make another attempt to win legislative approval for withholding of state personal income taxes.

In 1963 Brown fought hard for withholding but was turned down in a bruising fight.

But Champion talked of the lure of a $57 million boost to the state treasury that he said will come from replacing the present method of paying state income taxes all at once with the federal system of payroll deductions.

"I think income taxes should be paid currently and the best way to pay it is through pay-as-you-go or withholding," said Champion.

The finance director said that, in his opinion, the governor isn't personally anxious for another term — something President Johnson has asked Brown to seek.

But he said there is "great pressure" from Democrats who consider Brown a unifying force and who fear political battling if he quits state service in favor of a possible federal appointment.

"The governor is the greatest unifying force in the Democratic Party," said Champion.

Among those "pushing the governor for a third term" will be Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh—a man with his own gubernatorial ambitions, predicted Champion.

Champion had this to say on other subjects:

—Brown will seek full disclosure laws on campaign contributions and ask the lawmakers to tighten laws regulating conflicts between the private business affairs and public lives of state officials.

—The administration may propose a cigarette tax increase and Champion personally favors bigger levies on cigars and other tobacco products.

—The governor will seek to eliminate some state programs, but increase others, such as those for mentally retarded children and youngsters from slums.

—The governor may again ask the legislature to abolish capital punishment—something the lawmakers consistently have refused to do.

ONLY TWO CLUES IN BIG ROBBERY

Police Hunt For Dapper Bandits

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI)—A black imported felt hat and an abandoned stolen car were the only solid clues police had today in their hunt for a pair of dapper bandits who stole $299,130 in a daring city hall robbery.

Police had the hat because a passerby who saw the two stick-up men dash from city hall yesterday thought they might be purse snatchers. He lunged at one and knocked off the chapeau.

The purse the pair got away with included $126,245.80 in cash and the balance in non-negotiable tax checks. The unmasked bandits walked into the building about 9:15 a.m., slugged the city treasurer with a pistol, and fled with the loot.

Like other recent robberies in Paterson, N. J., and Chicago, yesterday's haul had the earmarks of careful planning and a good sense of timing. The gunmen struck only minutes before a Brink's armored car was to have picked it up.

Police said one of the gunmen was seen at the office Monday afternoon, apparently familiarizing himself with the layout.

A police spokesman said that besides the hat, the car and descriptions of the two men there was little else to go on. "There's not much more than that," he said.

Link Is Sought In Theft Cases

CHICAGO (UPI)—Authorities scrutinized the similarity today in the robbery of collection trucks in front of Roman Catholic churches in suburban Chicago and Paterson, N.J., to determine if there was a link between the two cases.

Police said they found partial finger and palm prints from articles left by the three bandits in Divine Savior church in suburban Norridge, where they looted a Brink's truck of $223,000 Monday night.

Exactly one week previously, three bandits, also wearing Halloween masks, burst into a church rectory in Paterson, bound four priests and made off with $500,000. That case also remains unsolved.

Marlin W. Johnson, special agent in charge of the Chicago FBI, said it was possible "that the Paterson mob could have come here."

Michael J. Spiotto, Chicago's acting chief of detectives, said that if the robbery was the work of the same gang, "they would have needed local talent. This took planning. It's just as likely that a local holdup gang studied the Paterson job and was inspired."

Officers speculated the bandits might have driven to O'Hare Airport and taken a plane to another state.

Atom Boss Challenges Reports Of Problems

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission is fuming almost as hotly as a split atom over suggestions that it is administratively disorganized, plagued by discord, becoming downgraded in government stature—and running out of things to do.

Vigorously denying any such ideas, the AEC also says that:

Things are going so well under its present five-member set-up that there's no movement afoot within the commission—as there was a couple of years ago—to have the agency changed to a single-administrator type of operation.

Finally, Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the agency, says he knows of no basis for suggestions that the AEC feels subservient to the Joint Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee—that is, suggestions that the AEC feels compelled to take unusual steps in carrying out its legal responsibilities to the committee.

Seaborg, a Nobel Prize winner who is top man in the nation's three billion-dollar-a-year 7,300-employee atomic enterprise, was particularly forceful during an interview in challenging any idea that the AEC is headed over the hill into obsolescence, largely because it has built up a stockpile of nuclear weapons and so much fissionable materials that production cut-backs already have been ordered.

"The AEC's functions have been more diverse," he said, "and that speaks to the point: Is the AEC obsolete?"

"Never have we had a more diverse operation in the whole history of the commission."

And the AEC as a whole contends that it has a host of big jobs still on its calendar—ranging from the quest to take the salt out of seawater to developing "a wide variety of nuclear weapons."

On other fronts there were these findings:

1. Moves within the commission itself for reorganization into a single administrator outfit appear to have occurred largely in 1962. And there is no available evidence of any strong moves anywhere today for such a change.

2. Several members of the Joint Senate-House Atomic Committee said the committee exerts no undue power over the AEC. And another—Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.), a former chairman of the committee—said any discord in the AEC's relationships with its own staff prevailed only in a two-year period ending in mid-1962, and "I don't believe it is true today."

3. State Department officials say the AEC is increasingly "coming into the mainstream . . . of international policy matters . . . to help further the over-all policy of the U.S. government."

Gold Reserve Shrinks To New Low Of Year

Washington (AP)—U. S. holdings of monetary gold declined by $40 million in November, the Federal Reserve Board reported today.

The decrease brought the gold stock to a total of $15,566,000,000 on Nov. 30. The gold holdings thus dipped, for the first time since March, below the total of gold reserves with which the year began — $15,596,000,000.

Humphrey Ready To Work As Civil Rights Overseer

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey said today he would submit to President Johnson this weekend his initial recommendations for coordinating the scattered federal civil rights programs. No new legislation is anticipated.

Humphrey, who resigned from his seat as a Minnesota senator yesterday, was named by the President on Dec. 10 as coordinator of the government's equal opportunity programs. Since then he has conferred with cabinet officers, agency heads, and civil rights leaders.

The civil rights assignment was an addition to the other special tasks Humphrey inherits with the vice presidency. He will be chairman of the space council, head the President's Committee on Equal Opportunity in Employment and sit in as a member of the National Security Council. His only constitutional duty is to preside over the Senate, with the right to vote in case of a tie.

MARINITES' POLITICAL GEOGRAPHY TO CHANGE

Starting tomorrow, many Marin County residents will be in different supervisorial districts.

The redistricting plan that places Corte Madera, most of Larkspur and downtown San Rafael in the Fourth District (West Marin) will be in effect.

The redistricting plan was adopted by the County Board of Supervisors Dec. 1 in an effort to equalize the population of supervisorial districts.

Mayors of the three cities involved in the change and the supervisor-elect of District 4, Thomas T. Storer, protested the plan that will extend the West Marin district from Point Reyes Peninsula to San Rafael Bay.

The redistricting also splits the northern section of the West Marin district, placing the area east of Tomales Bay, including Tomales and Nicasio, in the Fifth District (Novato).

Housing Authority Fetes Two Retiring Supervisors

The Marin Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency paid tribute yesterday to retiring County Supervisors William D. Fusselman and George H. Ludy at a luncheon at Sabella's restaurant in Alto. Housing authority commissioners gave Fusselman a plaque in recognition of his 22 years of service as a supervisor and Ludy a plaque for his four years of service.

Gasoline Price Fix Case Ended

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) Tuesday dismissed price-fixing cases against four major oil companies. But it said it would begin an inquiry next year into pricing practices in the gasoline industry.

Supervisors Fusselman and Ludy were defeated in the November election by Ernest N. Kettenhofen and Thomas T. Storer, who will take office next week.

Battery Stolen

Someone stole a $20.45 12-volt battery from a moving van at Pierce-Hardin Van and Storage Inc., 28 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, Earl C. Farnsworth of the moving company told police yesterday.

Gas Station Thieves Get Cash, Stamps

Burglars hit three service stations in Marin County last night, with identical mod operandi, smashing glass to gain entry for a hasty and not very lucrative take.

Biggest haul was at the Greenbrae Union Service Station at 501 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, where the thieves made off with $34.32 in cash and 2,500 trading stamps. The thieves broke a window and pried open a locked drawer to get the loot.

Cliff's Chevron Station at 50 La Pasada Way in Santa Venetia was also entered by breaking the glass in the front door. Taken was a cash box containing 80 cents and the credit card imprinter.

Triple S Automotive Service at 110 Jacoby Street, California Park, reported no loss. Burglars tried to break a latch on a side door but gave up there to break the glass in the front door.

A drawer, on a catch but not locked, was pried open, but there was nothing of value inside. The break-in was a repeat of one at the station two weeks ago when $50 was taken from the drawer.

At that time thieves entered through the side door, but a heavy bolt was placed there after the burglary.

Milking machines changed the dairy business but you don't hear cows bellowing about automation.

San Rafael Planners Block Underground Lines Proposal

Three San Rafael planning commissioners threw a block last night into plans to require underground utilities in new subdivisions.

They objected the cost would be higher than estimated by Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

The three objectors were Commissioners Charles J. Hendrickson, Carl S. Brown and Thomas R. O'Toole. Hendrickson is a building contractor; Brown is secretary-manager of Associated Home Builders of Marin; O'Toole operates Milani's Garage.

Mayor John F. McInnis has long been urging that underground utilities be required in new subdivisions. At a recent council meeting he cited figures on additional cost of undergrounding from Southern California Edison Co. which were lower than PG&E's estimates of $225 to $285 per lot. The council referred to the planning commission his proposal that all new power and phone lines be underground or "streamlined" — the latter requiring a minimum of overhead wires with metal poles.

City Planner George H. Rodgers presented the commission a recommendation that undergrounding be required. Brown called it "completely out of line."

"In some areas, underground is impossible," Brown contended. "There should be a choice between underground and streamlined."

The commission voted to order the staff to get figures from "responsible subdividers" who have installed underground electric utilities and present a report at the next meeting. But commissioner John A. Miskmen insisted that PG&E figures be included, too, because current costs may be lower than the costs in older subdivisions.

Commissioner V. Judson Klein said he favored the staff recommendation. "It gives the planning commission a choice as to whether the underground may be required or not," he said. "I know what Mr. Brown wants to do. He wants to give the choice to the subdivider."

Hendrickson, O'Toole and Brown all cited cases where costs of underground utility installation ran in the vicinity of $500.

Hendrickson listed Paradise Cay on Tiburon Peninsula, Madera Highlands in Corte Madera, Lucas Valley, Marin Bay, and Peacock Gap as subdivisions where costs should be investigated.

Bronze Knocker Stolen From Home

An empty house at 1428 Mission Avenue, San Rafael, was broken into, its owner told police Monday, but all the thief could find to steal was the bronze knocker.

Robert A. L. Menzies of 30 Cypress Drive, Kentfield, said the burglar probably got in through a window left open by a San Francisco real estate firm which had been showing the house to prospective buyers. He said the door knocker was worth $25.

Theater Sold But Will Still Stage Plays

Sausalito's Gate Theater has been sold, but the new owner has plans to keep stage door and box office open.

Jack Aranson, producer-director who has presented Gate Theater productions the past two years, will no longer be the operator after Jan. 16. Final performance of "Hamlet" by Aranson's company will be that night.

However, the new owner, Mrs. Desmond F. Mordant of Mill Valley, said today she plans to continue the theater after Aranson's lease expires.

"We intend to have a much greater turnover in stars," said Mrs. Mordant. "It should be a professional theater—not amateur and repertory."

Mrs. Mordant said she notified Aranson last April, after purchasing the property from Albert Lerner of San Francisco, that his lease would not be renewed after its expiration Jan. 15.

Aranson announced today the scheduled performance of "Hamlet" on New Year's Eve has been cancelled. The Shakespeare play, Aranson's last at the Gate, will be given on Jan. 1, 2, 8, 9, 15 and 16.

Aranson took over the Gate in January, 1963. Since then, he noted, "there has not been a dark weekend. We have presented eight productions for a total of about 325 performances."

Asked about his plans, Aranson said: "I'll start the miserable search for a theater all over again, I guess. It's pretty hard to find anything suitable these days. But I'd like to stay in Marin, which has been good to us."

Aranson and his wife and four children live at 11 Morningsun Avenue in Mill Valley.

TV Repairs Fraud Draws Jail, Fines

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A municipal judge handed out fines and jail terms yesterday to four television repairmen for making more repairs than necessary and hiking charges accordingly.

Judge Howard E. Crandall ordered Fred C. Sands, 28, president of American Television Corp., to jail for 20 days and said the term would be stretched to 120 if Sands does not pay a $500 fine.

William F. Santoro, 28, repairman, was sentenced to 15 days and must pay a $300 fine or serve an additional 45 days.

Clerks Frank J. Komenus, 27, and Neal Mello, 22, were sentenced to 15 days and ordered to pay $200 or serve an additional 40 days. The corporation was fined $800.

Deputy City Atty. Arthur G. Gilbert said the quartet made needless repairs, overcharged customers and retained TV sets until bills were paid.

Two Plead Innocent

Two Marin youths pleaded innocent in Marin County Municipal Court yesterday to a charge of car theft.

Gary William Motchar, 20, of 123 Auburn Street, and Woodrow Wilson Fitzsimmons, 21, of 830 B Street, San Rafael, were arrested by sheriff's deputies Dec. 5 near Peacock Gap in a car allegedly stolen from a San Jose man in downtown San Rafael.

Judge David R. Baty set preliminary hearing in the case for Jan. 14.

Questioning Due In Theft Of Cash

Several people were to be questioned today in connection with the theft of $62 from a locked cashbox at the California Bakery, 919 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Police said the theft, which took place over Christmas, was reported by Antonio Albini of the bakery. Albini said the cash box was opened by someone using a key.

San Rafael Apartment Opposition Unheard

Ten residents who attended a San Rafael Planning Commission meeting to protest an apartment complex were frustrated last night when the commission postponed the matter to let the builder cut down his plans.

The commission was holding a second public hearing on a request for planned community zoning on 6.6 steep acres off Lynn Court, west of Irwin Street and south of Woodland Avenue.

Builder Carl A. Warden first submitted plans for a 28-unit apartment complex. Last night he presented a 24-unit version with incomplete plans, and was told by some commissioners that he should cut it further.

Objecting neighbors feel the complex would add density out of line with the surrounding residential area and would create drainage problems.

The hearing was continued to Jan. 26 to allow revision of plans.

The commission approved, after second hearing rezoning in Glenwood subdivisions 5 and 6 and the surrounding area to residential with a 7,500-foot minimum lot size. This conforms with the adjacent areas and was recommended by the staff with no opposition.

First public hearing was held on a request to zone as single family residential, with 5,000 square-foot lot minimum, an area planned for development by Marin Master Builders on the Pimental Ranch property south of Lucas Valley Road and west of Las Gallinas Avenue. It is now unclassified.

Marin Master Builders has already developed adjacent areas under the same zoning requirements.

The commission set for Jan. 26 first hearing on single family housing, with 10,000 square-foot lots, for area north of Loch Lomond and west of Loch Lomond Unit One, requested by Hujon, Inc. It is now unclassified.

First hearing on rezoning a portion of a lot at 1487 Lincoln Avenue from single family residential to transient residential, to conform with the rest of the lot, was set for Feb. 9.

Second Span Study Gets New Boost

State Sen. J. Eugene McAteer (D-San Francisco) said yesterday he would introduce legislation permitting the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District to spend up to a half million dollars for a study of a second crossing to Marin County.

Such legislation would be similar to a bill which Marin's two legislators hope to introduce. State Sen. John F. McCarthy (R-San Rafael) and Assemblyman William T. Bagley (R-San Rafael) have indicated they are interested in a bill that would allow the Golden Gate Bridge District to contribute money to the study of a second crossing.

McAteer said his bill would free the bridge directors from restrictions that confine the district's jurisdiction to the area immediately adjacent to the present span.

"My bill will not contain any specified location," McAteer said.

Although the money would be put up by the bridge district, the study itself would be conducted by the State Department of Public Works, McAteer added.

CANCER

Coveries in understanding the structure of the basic core of all viruses—specifically, the nucleic acids DNA and RNA.

He said these discoveries are "probably more significant, if less appreciated by the public, than the unlocking of atomic energy."

Gershon-Cohen, a radiologist of the Albert Einstein Medical Center, spoke at a news conference prior to acting as chairman today of a symposium on viruses and cancer at the 131st meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Gershon-Cohen also told newsmen: 1. Achievement of better control over ordinary viruses—including those of the common cold—may help reduce the danger of getting cancer. It is possible some such viruses may be insidious helpmates of cancer causers, or even cancer causers themselves.

2. The day will come when the taking of the temperature of specific areas of the body with devices based on infra-red detection techniques "will be as important as X-ray" in helping detect ailments.

3. All people may be harboring latent, non-active cancer viruses—with cancer developing only in those people exposed to some triggering action such as excessive radiation, certain chemicals, or some internal disturbance.

Aliens Reminded To Make Report

Alien address report forms are available at all post offices and most substations in Marin County, said San Rafael Postmaster Warren H. Williams today.

All aliens resident in the United States on January 1 are required by law to report their address to the Immigration and Naturalization service before January ends. The annual address report is not the same thing as alien registration and even aliens who have lived in the U.S. for many years must comply.

Diplomats, members of certain international organizations and people admitted to the country as temporarily as agricultural workers are exempt from the requirement.

No Bolinas Meeting

There will be no meeting of the Bolinas Public Utility District board Friday evening, as normally scheduled, because of the holiday. The board will meet at 8 p.m. Jan. 8 in the Bolinas Mesa clubhouse, according to Mrs. George Gianola, secretary.

State Agrees Only To Study Closing Prison

The Marin County Grand Jury today won State Department of Corrections agreement to a study of closing San Quentin Prison—but no commitment.

The jury's law enforcement committee laid its case for abandoning the big Marin prison before Walter Dunbar, director of the Department of Corrections, and prison officials at a huddle at the Marin Civic Center.

Dunbar said the state has no plans to remove San Quentin, but is agreeable to a study.

San Quentin "is the size of three prisons," and it would take from 60 to 70 million dollars to replace it, Dunbar said. The plans for San Quentin include remodeling, a reduction of the prison population, and an increase in the staff, he said.

The prison population has averaged about 4,200 and it is hoped that it can be reduced to 3,500, Dunbar told the grand jury committee.

There are plans for a special security facility at Vacaville and a medical-psychiatric facility in Southern California which would take some of the San Quentin inmates, he noted.

Eric Tainter, chairman of the grand jury committee, said the prison stands on prime property and noted that the cost of maintaining it "is pretty darn high." Private industry would give serious thought to doing away with such a facility, he said.

Committee member Russell E. Anderson said an independent survey should be made by an unbiased concern.

Warden Lawrence E. Wilson said removal of the prison is a matter of policy at the state level.

"We have no allegiance as far as hanging on to San Quentin is concerned," he said. "We work as best we can in an overcrowded, motley arrangement of buildings."

HELP

Mrs. Hugh Drown of 3 Wallace Court, Novato, has been receiving the clothing in her garage, but asked that it be taken to the fire stations. She said more than four truck loads of clothing and blankets were left at her garage and more are still arriving.

Mill Valley Urged To Aid Refugees

A drive for clothing for northwest flood victims was started yesterday by Vic Poulsen of 544 Marin Avenue, Mill Valley.

Poulsen said boxes have been placed at the Mill Valley Post Office, Greyhound Bus Depot and Miller Avenue Shopping Center post office.

He said clothing, including shoes, should be in good condition. Hagen and Smith of 78 East Blithedale Avenue have agreed to store the clothing in their warehouse and, when a truck is going north, the items will be delivered, he said.

Must Appear In Forgery Case

John Lyle Mead of 7 Napa Street, Fairfax, must appear in Marin County Superior Court Monday to answer two felony charges of forging checks.

Mead, who also faces court trial Feb. 9 on two other forgery counts, was held to answer the additional counts after a preliminary hearing in Marin County Municipal Court yesterday.

He is accused of forging two $70 checks drawn on the San Rafael General Hospital. The hospital lost several blank checks two years ago.

2 Search Planes Defying Weather

Two high-performance search planes were braving rain squalls off the east and west slopes of the Sierra today in an effort to find a sign of the plane in which a Greenbrae couple vanished Dec. 19.

Maj. D. A. Starkweather of the Civil Air Patrol at Reed's Hillview Airport west of San Jose said the two aircraft from his group were the only search craft allowed up by the weather.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Paul V. Murphy of 500 South Elise Drive, left San Jose Airport Dec. 19 to fly to Las Vegas, and the airport lost radio contact with the plane just after takeoff.

Pacific Telephone Planning $712,000 Marin Expansion

Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. announced plans today to spend $712,000 on new equipment and building expansion in Marin County in 1965.

The outlay here is part of 153 million dollars which the company plans to spend to expand its facilities throughout Central California during the year ahead. This is in a region embracing San Francisco Bay, peninsula and coastal counties south to San Luis Obispo, and

Police Probe Father-Son Beating Case

San Rafael police planned to take a statement today from a hospitalized Fairfax man as the first step toward possible assault and battery charges against a father and son who allegedly beat him at their home Monday night.

The victim was Charles G. Ladd, 37, of 102 Dominga Avenue, Fairfax. He pounded on the door of San Rafael Police Sgt. Earl Christensen's home at 8:34 p.m. Monday, begging for help. Christensen took Ladd to San Rafael General Hospital, where he was admitted for treatment of bruises and scrapes on his face.

Police then went to the home of Marin Frank Perry, 53, at 12 Ross Street, San Rafael.

Ladd, they said, accused Perry and his son, Keith Perry, 19, of beating him. The father and son said Ladd had become abusive after they invited him to their home. The younger Perry told police Ladd slapped him and he responded by hitting him several times.

Ladd was in satisfactory condition today.

HOSPITAL

Mrs. J. V. Hawley of Mill Valley, representing the health facilities study committee, pointed out that general hospital facilities are already planned in the area by Kaiser and San Rafael General.

Robert S. Kendall, "community relations representative" of Terra Linda Valley Hospital, argued that hospital needs are not the business of the planning commission. He said the hospital has a chance for financial backing for the additional wing and must present plans by Jan. 15.

Commissioner Thomas R. O'Toole suggested that the hospital would have to apply for a new use permit as well as architectural approval. City Planner George H. Rodgers said he would investigate on what basis the hospital's present permit was issued and report Jan. 12.

U.C. Rally Is Planned

FRESNO (AP)—Free Speech Movement leader Mario Savio says he intends to call an informational rally when students return to the University of California Berkeley campus Monday.

Savio's remarks came after he spoke to an ex officio session of the California Teachers Federation Convention yesterday.

Four hours after Savio spoke, a resolution, endorsing the Berkeley Academic Senate's motions of Dec. 8, was adopted. The teachers' resolution urged regents "to endorse and implement these motions of the Academic Senate immediately."

Novato Dam Control Ruling

The Novato City Council last night passed an emergency ordinance giving the director of public works control over dams within the city limits. The ordinance becomes effective immediately.

Lawrence A. Coleman, director of public works, requested the ordinance to give him authority to act in demanding repair and control over construction of dams.

"We had some minor seepage with one dam on Christmas Eve, which the owner repaired immediately, but I acted without authority," Coleman said.

Mail Box Blast

Vandals used a firecracker or some other kind of explosive to demolish a wooden mail box at the home of Mrs. Victor Kern at 44 Almenar Drive, Greenbrae, the Marin County sheriff's office reported today.

OBITUARIES

Civic Leader F. Williams Dies At 72

Frank B. Williams, 72, died unexpectedly yesterday at his home at 654 Sausalito Boulevard, Sausalito.

A life-long Sausalito resident, he devoted much of his adult life to actively working for the improvement of his city and Marin County.

He retired in 1961 as an accountant for the San Francisco firm of Haskins and Sells, but continued to serve on the Marin County Mosquito Abatement District, of which he was once chairman, and many other groups.

Williams had served on the mosquito district board since 1935 and the county selective service board since its formation. He was a member of three county grand juries and a past commander of Mill Valley American Legion Post 284.

In the 1930s, he launched the legion's fire prevention program in the state. He frequently served on such committees as those which helped bring two-way radio and a civil defense program to the county.

In World War I, Williams was a Navy lieutenant, serving in England, France and Ireland. He volunteered as a Coast Guard lieutenant during World War II.

Surviving are his wife, Margaret, of Sausalito; two sons, Robert B. Williams of Menlo Park and John B. Williams of Orinda; a brother, Harold Williams, and a sister, Elizabeth Williams, both of San Francisco, and six grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Christ Episcopal Church, Sausalito. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno, directed by Frank J. Keaton Mortuary.

ALICE EVANS

A funeral for Mrs. Alice Evans of Sausalito, who died while visiting relatives in the East, was held today in Pittsburg, Mass.

Mrs. Evans was manager of the Central School cafeteria in Sausalito for about 14 years, retiring the day before Thanksgiving.

She died following a heart attack Sunday at the home of a relative.

Mrs. Evans had lived in Sausalito more than 20 years, residing at 35 Marie Street.

She is survived by her husband, Trevor Evans, who works for the alcohol and tobacco tax unit of the Internal Revenue Service in San Francisco. The couple had no children. Also surviving her are several brothers and sisters, all of Pittsburg.

U.S. STILL TRYING ON DIXIE KILLINGS

Grand Jury To Re-Hear Philadelphia Case; Klansmen Win Round On Georgia Murder

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—A 23-member, biracial federal grand jury has been called to reconvene Jan. 11 to consider for a second time the government's evidence against 21 men arrested in the slaying of three young civil rights workers.

The jurors earlier heard what the government considered a strong case, but returned no indictments. But since that time, FBI agents have secured a purported confession and other new evidence.

Justice Department sources were optimistic of gaining indictments on civil rights charges against the suspects.

The order filed yesterday did not specify what cases would be presented, but noted a request made by U.S. Atty. Robert Hauberg in which Hauberg asked specifically for new consideration of the case.

MACON, Ga. (UPI)—An indictment charging six Ku Klux Klansmen with conspiring to deprive Negroes of their civil rights was thrown out of federal court Tuesday on grounds it failed to show a federal violation.

Judge W. A. Bootle dismissed the indictment which grew from an investigation into the slaying of Negro educator Lemuel Penn of Washington, D.C., last July. The six Klansmen were charged with conspiring to "injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate" unnamed Negroes.

U.S. Atty. Floyd Buford planned to meet with Justice Department officials regarding an appeal.

The six Klansmen did not appear Monday at a hearing before Bootle at which they attorneys urged the indictment be thrown out. Two of the Klansmen were tried and found innocent last summer on charges of killing Penn.

Bootle had been asked by defense attorneys to dismiss the indictments because prosecutors failed to show a federal crime had been committed.

Three of the Klansmen, John Howard Sims, Cecil William Myers and James S. Lackey, were charged with slaying Penn as he and two other Negro Army reserve officers drove along a lonely stretch of highway near Athens, returning home from a tour of duty at Ft. Benning.

Mill Valley May Drop Sewer Tax

The City of Mill Valley may soon charge a monthly sewer use fee.

City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer said today he is working on the plan, which will be presented to the city council to be considered with the 1965-66 budget.

Should it be made effective, the fee would reduce property tax by 29 cents, from the current $2.30 to $2.01 per $100 assessed valuation, Balmer said.

The fee would be against the consumer rather than the property, explained Balmer. The only sewer charge on the property tax would be for bonded indebtedness.

Districts outside the corporate limits of Mill Valley would not be affected because they have their own systems of charging.

Persons owning vacant property, now paying 29 cents sewage tax, would not have to pay this tax, said Balmer. Also, he cited that Alcan-Marine Ltd., which now pays 60 cents property tax to Richardson Bay sanitary district, could be relieved of that tax by annexing to the city.

No city nor sanitary district in Marin County charges a sewer use fee.

Cost Of Living In U.S. Up Again

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Living costs rose slightly last month in the nation, the government reported today. It was the eighth time in the last 11 months that the price level showed an increase.

The Labor Department's consumer price index in November rose two-tenths of one per cent. This meant that goods and services costing $10 the month before cost $10.02 in November.

The November increase was led by higher costs for housing, clothing and automobiles. The housing cost increase included both rentals and home ownership, and both new and used car prices were up.

The Labor Department said the consumer price index for November stood at 108.7 per cent of the 1957-59 average. Living costs last month were 1.2 per cent above a year earlier, meaning that the same consumer items costing $10 last year had risen in cost to $10.12 last month.

Robert J. Myers, deputy director of the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, called the increase modest.

"We still have not seen the substantial inflation this year that many persons predicted," he said.

Mailbags Theft Remains Mystery

Little progress has been made concerning "the mystery of the missing mailbags" stolen Christmas Eve from the Montecito Shopping Center, J. V. McNeeley, district post office inspector in Santa Rosa said today.

Four bags containing Christmas packages mailed at the Purity Store were missing when a postal truck called at 7:15 p.m. The sacks had been placed outside when the store closed at 7 p.m.

Sole clue, said McNeeley, is debris found dumped at Main Drive and San Pedro Road. Analysis of this showed that it included wrappings of four packages.

Accoustical Tile Firms Face Charge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. and a number of distributors and contractors were charged today in an antitrust action with dividing up sales territory for $30 million worth of accoustical tile installations in Northern California.

The criminal action filed in U.S. District Court charges that the group divided the market for accoustical materials among themselves.

Among the defendants in the Brookman Co. Inc., a San Francisco firm which recently pleaded no contest to antitrust charges involving the installation of floor coverings in schools.

Joseph A. Mancini, company president who also is named in this action, was given an unprecedented 90-day jail sentence in the floor covering case. He is appealing from the sentence.

Additional defendants are Western Asbestos Co., Cramer Acoustics, Pritchard & Stone,

The Cup Of Holiday Cheer Can Be A Cup Of Sorrow

The carnage on the highways is not over. In fact, the worst may be yet to come.

During this breather between Christmas and New Year's Eve, we might take stock of a few sobering facts on how a few shots of good cheer muddle the brain and slow the reflexes.

The fun-loving, whiskey drinking British apparently view drunken driving much more seriously than we do. Recent changes in British law have greatly increased the drinking driver's legal peril.

In Britain, the normal rule on conviction of a first drunken driving offense is at least one year's suspension of license.

The British Government has also published a booklet advising motorists how to cope with alcohol and automobiles.

The warnings contained in that booklet apply just as well to the American driver.

We've heard many a driver justify a couple of stiff drinks by explaining, "It relaxes me; makes me a better driver."

That's the first danger signal. Studies, both here and in Britain, show that alcohol brings over-confidence. A driver is willing to take more risks. Compounding this hazard is the fact that his reaction is slower.

In other words, the drinking driver takes more chances when he is least prepared to meet emergencies that are most likely to occur.

The danger level for drivers can be reached with as little as one and one-half pints of beer or three shots of whiskey.

The trouble is, the effect of a few drinks is sometimes too small for himself to feel or his friends to see.

At New Year's Eve parties, the safest rule is never to press a drink on anyone who has to drive. You may be trying to impress your friends with what a jolly good fellow you are.

But the effect of it may be about as jolly as if you had drained the brake fluid from his car and loosened the steering mechanism, then sent him along his jolly way down Highway 101 to eternity.

ANCIENT TREES STAND AS A REMINDER
The world's tallest trees are found in California.

They are redwoods, and some are more than 350 feet high, 12 feet in diameter and over 2,200 years old.

The National Geographic Society recently provided a $64,000 grant to study these forest giants, with a view to obtaining them for conservation purposes.

Some of the large trees in a belt 250 miles long and 40 miles wide are threatened by highway construction and cutting for lumber.

The wonders of nature, ancient, massive and towering in their strength, give silent testimony to God's majesty.

But man, with his intellect and free will, is the only creature who can comprehend these "divine footprints" and give glory to Him Who made the world.

Open your heart to the beauty and splendor of the world of nature. Then you will be more likely to render fitting thanks to the Creator Who put all at man's disposal for his temporal and eternal happiness.

"O Lord, our Lord, how glorious is your name over all the earth." (Psalm 8:2)

Enlighten me, O Holy Spirit, to the world around me, which is but a dim reflection of the divine.

OLD ISSUES REVIVED

Next Legislature Faces Chore Of Improving Earlier Laws

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Some of the biggest jobs in the 1965 session of the Legislature, which convenes Jan. 4, will be making modifications, refinements or some major changes in the important legislation adopted in the past two years.

PROBABLY AT THE TOP of this list is education. The 1964 Legislature approved the most far-reaching education finance bill in years and, besides finding the money to continue it, there will be attempts to change it.

Among other things, the measure by Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh (D-Inglewood) offered strong monetary incentives for unification of school districts along high school district lines. There has been considerable kicking and screaming by the districts affected, and there no doubt will be some attempts to relax the requirements.

The Unruh bill also requires reduction in class size and moves are expected to delay this. The compensatory education program, set up on a pilot basis by the 1963 Legislature, now is ready to go into full operation and this will occupy the time of the lawmakers for many an hour.

NO ONE KNOWS just what the aftermath of the University of California riots and demonstrations will bring from the Legislature, but there are certain to be a number of proposals to assure such things won't take place again.

With the approval by the voters of a 150-million-dollar bond issue for beaches and parks in November, the 1965 Legislature will receive the initial proposals for purchase of new lands. Under terms of the bond issue act, all expenditures of the bond funds will require legislative approval.

THE LONG-STANDING battle between highway builders and nature lovers has been the subject of several recent hearings and there is certain to be legislation aimed at trimming authority of the California Highway Commission. Gov. Edmund G. Brown said he feels the present balance of authority is good and that the highway commission is doing an excellent job.

One ambitious proposal that will be before the 1965 Legislature is the first major revision of the big State Constitution in history. A special commission has been working on the problem for many months and is expected to introduce legislation to remove obsolete language, regroup many sections and make other changes.

While many of the revisions are technical, there is a major one which would cut terms of fish and game commissioners from six years to four. This would conform the commission to most others, which enjoy four-year terms, but there are solid objections that such a change might also make the commissioners more subject to political pressure.

Along with park development, 1965 could be a big year of decision for the big task of providing recreational facilities at the reservoirs in the state water project. There have been estimates that the total program will cost some 200 million dollars.

USE OF THE SEVERAL reservoirs already completed has shown that the public will be there to make capacity use of facilities as soon as the water fills in behind the dam. There are indications of an agreement under which more of the tidelands oil revenues will be diverted into a fund. This fund would be under control of the Department of Water Resources and could be used to finance construction of the recreational works.

Governor Brown has said his 1965-66 budget would contain little or no new program, but this doesn't mean his agency and department heads won't be in asking for new divisions and services. Almost certain to be in the works is a request for funds to activate the tourism bureau. This new agency was created in 1963 but no funds were provided for it and it has been in a state of suspended animation.

THE CONTROVERSIAL plan to create a revenue department to take over functions of the board of equalization, franchise tax board, state controller and other agencies—in varying degrees, depending upon whose proposal it is — will bring more cries of anguish from the agencies affected.

While the usual number of requests for creating new agencies and services are expected, there also will be some attempts to cut back existing operations. The consumer counsel office generally is a target and no doubt will be faced with crises. There probably will be a move to cut back the scope and budget of the Fair Employment Practices Commission, due to the approval of Proposition 14 on the November ballot.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

MORRIS, longtime waiter at a Broadway restaurant, realized that his end was near, but assured his wife, "Sarah, any time you want to see me, I'll come back." Then, cheerfully to the end, he passed away.

One day Sarah visited a spiritualist, and said, "I must see my Morris. He's expecting my call." The spiritualist turned out all the lights, and whispered, "Knock three times."

Sarah knocked, but nothing happened. She knocked louder — again without result. Thoroughly annoyed, she cried, "Morris, this is the last time I call you. Come here immediately."

There was a vivid flash of lightning, and there was Morris.

"So, you finally came," said Sarah. "Why didn't you appear the first time I knocked?"

Morris drew himself up, and pointed out haughtily, "It's not my table."

Radio Operators Thanked For Aid

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Through your paper, I would like to thank all the men that staffed the emergency short wave radio station at 668th Radar Station atop Mt. Tamalpais during the 1964 flood on the Eel River.

They were the only ones that could get a message through to my niece who was living at Weott. We did not know where she had been evacuated to.

I called on Wednesday evening. They were very pleasant and very helpful.

My sister-in-law in Windsor received a phone call on Thursday from a ham radio operator in Napa that my niece was alright and that a telegraph would be sent later. Thanks fellows, it made Christmas a happier day.

Happy New Year to you all.

Cal Probe Better Than Less Money

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Today on the news I heard our State Senator John McCarthy say that he did not believe a legislative investigation of the "free speech" movement at UC was necessary because the legislature had budgetary control of the University and could use same to express disapproval. I, for one, sincerely hope that he did not mean what he was saying. When Jesse Unruh said the same thing we were able to shrug it off by considering the source.

Such economic blackmail is indeed cutting off one's nose to spite one's face. If the choice is between a legislative inquiry and hamstringing the University, surely an inquiry would be more just and, in the long run, less expensive. Isn't it wise to find out just what forces are behind a movement that can mushroom a small grievance into a national incident? Who or what supports these professional demonstrators is a subject of interest to all thinking Americans. Whoever put up bond for these students who deliberately defied the law will probably pay their fines when their sentences are suspended. The net effect is that despite efforts by our police and courts to the contrary, these willful violators of the law go unpunished. Experience has taught us that many of them will be arrested again in the next demonstration.

These demonstrators obviously have both money and time at their disposal. I would like very much to know where the money comes from. I had hoped that Senator McCarthy might feel the same way.

World Progressed Somewhat During Past Twelve Months

WASHINGTON (AP)—The world was still sticky in 1964 but at home there was steady movement forward and the air was cleared a bit, politically and otherwise, leaving President Lyndon B. Johnson to face his first full term at ease on many issues.

OVERSEAS the Berlin wall still stood, a reminder that East-West differences were as stiff as cement. But the United States and the Soviet Union accommodated themselves a little better to the idea that both have to live on one earth. The Congo was a mess but there was an even worse mess in the American-backed war against communism in Vietnam.

Egyptian President Nasser, like others this year, rebuffed the United States. He said anyone who didn't like Cairo's attitude could "drink from the sea," an Egyptian way of saying "go to hell."

The 15-member NATO alliance stayed intact but the partners began to feel free to cut their individual capers, now that danger from the Soviet Union has dwindled. It was like a poker game with 15 decks of cards.

THE GRUNTS AND groans coming out of the split between those one-time allies, the Soviet Union and Red China, added little to enlightenment. They sounded like a couple of used-car salesmen trying to convince a customer on a washboard road.

The new men in the Kremlin, ever since throwing out Premier Khrushchev, have been shuffling around in a kind of softshoe act, waiting for the music to start.

The west doesn't know what they'll do, what direction they will take, or whether Khrushchev's departure was a turning point in history.

BUT AT HOME the economy was booming for a record fourth year in a row. To pep it up even more Congress gave it a blood transfusion with the biggest tax cut in history.

In the long view the achievements in the field of citizens' rights, civil and political, perhaps will be most memorable.

In a year in which three civil rights workers were murdered in Mississippi and Negroes rioted in Northern cities, Congress passed the most far-reaching civil rights act of the century. Then, with extraordinary

No Need To End The Republic For Strong State Governments

By RICHARD DOUGHERTY
(For Roscoe Drummond)

WASHINGTON — One heartening thing seems to be emerging from the current agonies of the Republican Party.

A significant number of leaders, particularly the governors, are shaking themselves more and more free of the time-worn fallacy that, if we are to have a system of strong state governments in this country, we must ipso facto have a weak federal government.

This proposition has been nourished by GOP spokesmen for years. Based on the notion that power is something that gets divided up like a pie, it never made a great deal of sense. As time goes by, and the world gets bigger and more complicated, it makes even less.

SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER was a prisoner of this fallacy. In his campaign for the presidency he always linked, as if the link were inexorable, his argument for stronger state governments with the pledge to cut the federal government "down to size."

The result was that many voters who might have been attracted by the promise of more forceful and effective state governments were put off by the violence of the attack on Washington.

Cutting the federal government down to size in the minds of most people means, in effect, repealing a good share of the New Deal. And the country is not about to repeal the New Deal.

AT THE SAME time a very strong case can be made for the view that, given the vastness of the nation and variety and complexity of its problems, few Washington-directed programs can work as well as those which are locally designed to meet local needs.

Liberated from an unnecessary, indeed unrelated, hostility to the federal government, this position would find wide support among Republicans and Democrats alike.

IT WOULD appear to have done so last November, in fact, when, despite the overwhelming Lyndon B. Johnson landslide, such men as Michigan's George Romney and Rhode Island's John H. Chafee were returned to their state houses by healthy margins.

Neither of these two governors — anymore than Pennsylvania's William Scranton, New York's Nelson Rockefeller, Idaho's Robert Smylie, or Colorado's John Love — are given to wild pronouncements on the federal colossus or to claiming not to know which is the greater menace, Washington or Moscow.

They seem reasonably confident that strong, bold, and imaginative governments can exist — and should exist — on both state and federal levels at the same time. And they do not, as Senator Goldwater did in the campaign, seem to think this requires a "return" of power to the states from the central government.

THE ATTACK which these governors, as well as many GOP legislators, can and do make on Washington is hardly related to power at all. It is related to money. The federal government takes the cream of the tax revenues — leaving the states and municipalities with the skimmed milk.

This provides sound grounds for complaint and it has a high relevance in the whole question of how to go about reinvigorating state and local governments.

More to the point, to press for a fair shake in the matter of tax revenues is a very different thing than to threaten to cut the national government down to size — and much more likely to be politically profitable.

PERHAPS IT IS in this matter of state power as related to federal power that the real separation occurs between party progressives and the Goldwater wing. Perhaps it is the conviction among the former that the cause of state government can be advanced without dismantling the republic.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Racketeers Control 'Legitimate' Firms

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Underworld infiltration of legitimate business now is so widespread that hundreds of large and small enterprises throughout the country are either owned or controlled by vice elements.

In this increasingly sinister trend, racketeers are turning to banks and loan institutions. Definitely known instances of this are the following:

A bank in a prosperous Detroit suburb is in the grip of members of the Detroit Cosa Nostra. Henchmen of Joe Zerrilli, a leader of the notorious mob, readily obtain loans from this bank with little or no security.

A Virginia bank was systematically looted by two hoodlum gangs operating through an apparently respectable front. Using that device, a St. Louis racketeer is strongly suspected of dominating a bank in that area.

Owning major interests in the First National Service and Discount Corp., New York City, were leading Mafia members, among them Michael Genovese, younger brother of the notorious Vito Genovese, as testified to the N.Y. State loan shark probe.

THERE IS ALSO mounting hoodlum infiltration, chiefly through fronts, of other profitable business fields — real estate, auto agencies, building supplies, hotels and motels, trucking, clothing factories, food processors, dairies and dairy products, undertaking establishments, restaurants, and night clubs.

One of the best known Manhattan night spots is deemed racket-controlled. Local authorities so far have not been able to prove that, but they are fully convinced of it.

Hoodlums have long had their tentacles on garbage and waste removal, laundries and linen services, vending machine enterprises, race tracks, resorts, entertainment agencies and entertainers, beverage concerns, both alcoholic and non-alcoholic.

JUSTICE DEPARTMENT authorities roughly estimate these underworld interests amount to "many hundreds of millions of dollars."

Mobsters are financing their constantly expanding business holdings with huge incomes from organized crime — with gambling and loan sharking the most profitable.

From the latter alone, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover estimates the underworld nets at least 1 billion dollars a year. Gambling is characterized by him as even more lucrative.

"One 'bank' in the New York area was taking in over 6 million dollars a year," he said, "Chicago police in February of this year found close to $800,000 in the home of a recently deceased operator of a policy racket, who was only a 'modest operator.'"

"This is the type of income which makes the organized underworld economically powerful. Although there is no enterprise, legal or illegal, which members of the organized underworld would shun, gambling remains its major source of wealth. Loan sharking probably is its next best producer."

A typical illustration of the "profits" from loan shark operations was the "salary" of $1,000 a month the owner of a small Midwest business paid a racketeer to whom he was in debt. This "salary" covered interest only, and did not reduce the principal. In the end, the unfortunate little businessman lost his concern through "foreclosure."

"There have been instances of loan sharks collecting as much as $100,000 on $10,000 loans," said Hoover. Collection methods used by loan sharks are ruthless and often brutal. "Inroads also have been made in some labor unions. Some of the underworld's most important leaders have gained vast legitimate holdings."

Tiburon City Fathers Asking All With Ideas To Give Advice

City fathers of Tiburon made a decision last week which may be felt by the new city for as long as it exists.

City councilmen and planning commissioners sat down to talk about how to form a citizens' planning advisory group.

On one side were a mixed group of councilmen and commissioners who wanted the committees to be nominated and appointed by city officials.

ON THE OTHER side were councilmen and commissioners who were all for putting forth their own nominations for the committees—but also wanted volunteers from the world at large of the peninsula.

This group wanted "new blood" in the land where a man is an old-timer if he's lived in the county for five years and native if he's stayed in the same house that long. The other side said they wanted the tried, the true, the tested, the people they or their friends knew.

IT CAME TO A show of hands, and by a 5-4 vote, councilmen and commissioners amicably agreed to consider anyone who volunteered by putting his qualifications in writing and mailing them in a letter to the city office, 1610 Tiburon Boulevard.

In other words, it means that the screening committee of city officials and then the council-commission may consider Lottie Glutz, who just moved in, doesn't know a soul, but has ideas. And they may consider Bertram Krakenmieser, who's been around for ages, is shy and isn't noticed by anyone, but has ideas.

IT MEANS that the talkers who wouldn't consider going to the polls for less than a national election will have a chance to put up or shut up.

Council and commission still will have the final say on whom to appoint; there's plenty of room on the committees, which are expected to total between 60 and 125 persons.

Subcommittees will study residential, commercial, industrial development, traffic, ways, schools, ways and means, waterfront, parks-recreation - open space, community appearance, community facilities and community development.

THEIR BROAD IDEAS on what they want the city—and the peninsula—to become probably will become the basis for a changed or new master plan for the city. Councilmen and commissioners said they will consider candidates from neighboring Belvedere, Strawberry and other unincorporated areas.

City fathers set a deadline of Monday for planning adviser candidates to write to the city. The response so far has been one letter, in this holiday time when such a deadline date becomes almost an obstacle to surmount so the citizen gives his first proof of dedication.

CITY OFFICIALS would be interested in finding out as much as possible about a volunteer candidate who writes to the city, such as name, address and how long he has lived there, whether he has any children in school, specific occupation and location of it, whether he owns property in or out of the city, club, church, organization memberships, whether he has been elected or appointed before to any government office, which committee he would choose to be on, and other information to help make a choice.

Teddy Roosevelt's Big Stick Carries No Weight These Days

WASHINGTON — Last week was known as "Tell the United States to Jump in the Lake Week." Between Gen. Khanh in Vietnam, the African nations in the U.N., and our good and dear friend Nasser in the United Arab Republic, everyone seemed to be giving us the business and there wasn't much we could do about it.

NOBODY SEEMS to be impressed with the power and influence of the United States these days.

Just the other day the Prime Minister of the newly-formed country of Disdainia paid a visit to the American embassy to ask the American ambassador for aid.

"Mr. Ambassador," he said, "our country is in dire straits. Our agricultural crops have failed, our textile industry is bankrupt, and our five-year housing plan has collapsed. We need American help immediately."

"Then why are your people breaking all the windows in my embassy?" the ambassador asked.

"I MUST WARN YOU, Mr. Ambassador, we will not accept any aid that has strings attached. Our country has its pride."

"I'm not asking for strings," the ambassador replied. "I'm asking you to stop breaking my windows."

"My government will not permit your government to tell us how to run our internal affairs."

"Mr. Prime Minister, why did you burn down the USIA library?"

"I will not sit here and listen to these colonist attacks against my country. We are a free nation and we can burn down any library we feel like."

The American ambassador ducked as a rock came flying through the window. "Another thing, Mr. Prime Minister, my country would like to know why your country shot down three unarmed American airplanes?"

"AND WHAT ABOUT the Negroes in the South?" the Prime Minister said.

The American ambassador clutched his desk as a bomb went off in the embassy basement. "It's going to be hard for me to justify American aid in your country when you keep doing things that offend our country."

"Be more specific, Mr. Ambassador."

"Well, for example, I thought making me eat an American flag at your independence day celebration was too much."

"WE MADE THE RUSSIAN ambassador eat a flag also and he didn't complain."

"That's because you tipped him off and he had one made of rice paper."

"I didn't come here to discuss trivial matters. I came to ask for agricultural items, a couple of hydroelectric dams, and three squadrons of jet bombers. I feel that's the least you can do for a new nation that is struggling to join the family of peace-loving nations."

Independent-Journal, Wed., Dec. 30, 1964 7

"What about those American missionaries you're holding as hostages?"

"What about the 800 students you arrested at the University of California?" Suddenly from outside came the sound of machine-gun fire.

"WHAT'S THAT?" the ambassador asked.

"It's a coup d'etat. I warned you if you didn't give me aid my government would fall. Now you'll be dealing with an unfriendly regime and you have only yourself to blame."

Baglietto Sells Jewelry Store; Northgate Grand Opening March 11

The man who as recently as last August, when he celebrated his 70th birthday, announced that he had no intention of retiring "until Frank Keaton comes and gets me," has sold his business.

However, Eugene E. Baglietto, owner of Rafael Jewelers at 1144 Fourth Street, San Rafael, said he won't stop work altogether, but will "sleep later, work three or four days a week—and if I want to take off for a month, there's nothing to stop me."

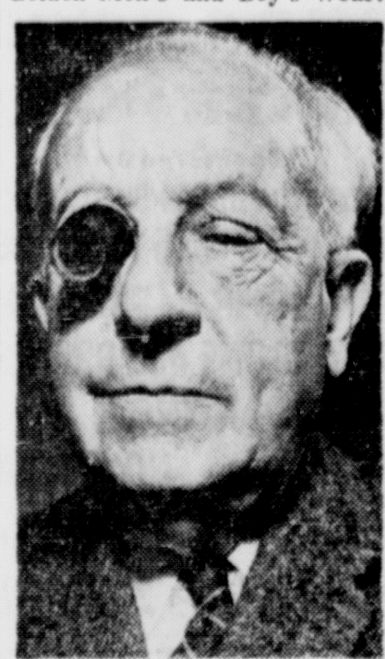

He has sold out to Steve J. Blumenthal, a young San Francisco watchmaker, who has been with Albert S. Samuels Co. for the past 10 years. Blumenthal will take over the business Saturday.

Baglietto began his jewelry career in 1909 at Shreve and Co., San Francisco. After 13 years he moved to Samuels and for nine years was in charge of the repair department. He opened his own store on Fourth Street in the early 1930s and boasts that he hasn't been off one day for sickness since then.

NORTHGATE SHOPPING CENTER is planning its "Grand Opening" on March 11. By then you will find many of the 22 new firms (besides the Emporium and Milens Jewelers) in Unit Two who are scheduled to have stores there.

These are: Roos-Atkins, Kutsuris Restaurant, Loana, Ltd., Stern's Luggage, Leed's Shoes, H. Liebes, Chandler's Warp and Wool, Frank More Shoes, Inc., City of Paris, Parson's Optical, Bank of America, Hasting's, Modern Eve, Granat Bros., Sommer and Kaufman, House of Nine, See's Candies, Stribley's (china and silver), Perlick Costume Jewelry, GallenKamp's Shoes, Florsheim Shoes and Golden Men's and Boy's Wear.

EUGENE T. BAGLIETTO Sells business

Also, Unit One should be completely filled by then.

WOMEN apparently have learned something about investments during the past two years.

In checking earning rates of its member clubs, the National Assn. of Investment Clubs has discovered that clubs made up entirely of women were earning at the compound annual rate of 9.95 per cent as compared with 9.1 per cent for clubs made up only of men. Two years ago, men's clubs outperformed the women's groups.

In 1964, the average earnings rate for men and women combined increased to 9.62 per cent from 9.59 per cent on members' investments. Some clubs did even better—one out of every 20 this year earned more than 25 per cent compounded annually.

Hedberg joined the association's controller division in 1957. He is a member of the American Savings and Loan Institute and the Society of Savings and Loan Controllers, Golden Gate chapter.

FIRST BREAKFAST MEETING of the Marin County Real Estate Board for the new year will be next Tuesday. Installation of new officers and directors will be Jan. 24 at a dinner dance at Dominic's.

Recent changes in real estate offices have taken Helen B. Kerr, formerly with Richardson Bay Co. to Polly McNaught, Sausalito; Dee Barger from Langsam Realty to Edgewater Properties, Sausalito; and Moses Greenberg to the Terra Linda office of Gallagher-Sturiale Realtors.

INSURANCE BROKER John J. Schuck who formerly had his office in Larkspur has moved to new quarters at 20 H Street, San Rafael.

KENNETH A. FROST ASSOCIATES, engineering firm located in Tiburon for the past three years, is moving to 131 Camino Alto, Mill Valley to start off the new year.

Chevrolet Firm Sold In Novato

Sale of Andersen Chevrolet Co. of Novato to Theodore R. Schuman of Menlo Park was announced yesterday by Mrs. Elsie Andersen.

The sale includes the parts and accessories, fixtures, furniture and the equipment in the building at First Street and Grant Avenue in Novato.

Schuman has leased that building from Mrs. Andersen, the lot adjacent from Albert Young, and the used car lot across the street from Mrs. Laura Rodoni, Mrs. Andersen said.

Negotiations are under way for sale of 10 acres west of Highway 101 and south of the Novato Fair Shopping Center which Andersen Chevrolet had purchased for a new location, she said.

The business was closed last Sept. 22, when General Motors Corp refused to renew the Chevrolet franchise. The firm was founded in 1928 by Gordon Andersen and operated by him until his death last March 18. His widow operated the business until July when a corporation was named and Robert H. Rewoldt formed to manage the business. Two days after the garage closed its doors, it was the scene of night-time movement of 35 cars by General Motors Acceptance Corp. to a field near the Northgate Shopping Center. The cars were later returned to Andersen Chevrolet.

Mrs. Andersen said she will probably go to work for Schuman when he opens the business about Jan. 14.

Schuman recently sold an Oldsmobile-Cadillac business in Merced. He has been general manager of a Chevrolet garage on the peninsula. He is married and has one daughter at home and two married sons.

Nation's Economy Is Expected To Have Good Year

Total Output Might Climb To A Peak Of $659 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy is expected to turn in another sparkling performance in 1965 and propel total output toward a dizzying peak of 659 billion.

Consumer surveys, government and private, indicate willingness to buy more autos, television sets and other large items.

The Defense Department's thin-slicing policy could have an economic shrinking effect in some areas, but the overall level of federal government spending will go up another $2 billion or so, as antipoverty and other programs, new or expanded, start speeding up.

Local and state government inevitably will increase outlays for schools and other services for a growing population.

A couple of programs not yet on the books could have a bearing on the economic outlook. It's conceivable that a new plan of medical care for the aged could be put into operation soon, or Congress may increase Social Security benefits. Either way it probably adds up to more dollars in the hands of consumers.

Housing programs in the anti-poverty campaign could cause an upward revision in construction figures.

Exports stepped up smartly in 1964 and further gains are expected on this front. Some experts believe the "Kennedy Round" of tariff negotiations may set off a flurry of economic activity by prodding some U.S. companies into modernization programs to meet the challenge of free trade.

Gains in easing unemployment again may be slight. Some progress has been made in finding jobs for the long-term unemployed and married males but total unemployment remains above 5 per cent despite four years of healthy economic growth. The high rate of teenage unemployment is a major factor in keeping the over-all percentage high.

The consumer price index is about 8 per cent higher than in the 1957-59 period — a good record of stability in comparison to past recovery periods. Wholesale prices have been even steadier although some metal prices are beginning to pop. There is still capacity to spare in the manufacturing industries.

The administration's wage-price guidelines — a formula designed to limit wage increases to productivity gains — were bent if not broken by the wage increases in the automobile industry. The coming events in the steel industry will be another stress test.

The international balance of payments problem — the loss of U.S. dollars to other nations — is much more complex but it is linked to the domestic economy.

The Federal Reserve's boosting of the discount rate from 3.5 to 4 per cent — for international reasons — seems certain to cause some tightening of money eventually, although the Federal Reserve Board has pledged a program of "cautious ease" unless inflationary signs start popping up.

What sectors are going to produce the demand for continued growth in 1965?

Government economists believe business spending for new plant and equipment will rise to about $47.7 billion, or a gain of 8 per cent. This is not as great as the 13 per cent surge in 1964, but it will provide a powerful nudge.

Over-all construction is expected to rise 3 per cent to 68.2 billion on top of a 6 per cent advance in 1964. Industrial construction is scheduled for another 10 per cent jump, to $3.6 billion. Private residential building probably will show little change from 1964, although some experts believe it will show some rise over its lackluster performance of 1964.

The brightest sector is consumer demand for automobiles and other durable goods. Some administration officials believe consumers have not yet fully savored the income tax cut, even though it was tailored so that most of the economic impact would fall in 1964.

'Latest Design From L.A.' Fails To Get By Planners

Mobil Oil Co.'s "latest service station design from L. A." wasn't good enough for Francisco and Bellam boulevards in San Rafael at last night's meeting of the San Rafael Planning Commission.

"You say if this was in Terra Linda, you could get a better station. I think this is just as important as Terra Linda," commissioner Charles J. Hendrickson told company engineer Robert Schroeder. "It's the front door to San Rafael and I think we're entitled to something better."

Commissioners who voted against the station weren't satisfied with its boxlike design nor with its less decorative materials.

First vote was a 3-3 tie. Commissioner V. Judson Klein changed his vote from "Yes" to "No" to break the deadlock so "you can get out of the impasse and appeal to city council."

The commission faced a squeeze between greenery and parking problems just a few blocks from the site of the proposed service station and those greenery.

A strip of greenery was provided in front of a four-story office building at 66 Belvedere Street by making do with tandem parking spaces in the rear, in plans submitted by Robert Greene and John Russell. Commissioners approved the plans, with the provision of two more parking spaces, bringing the total to 17, two above the required number.

The San Rafael Planning Commission Also:

1. Gave architectural approval to two signs requested by Ad Art Sign Co. for the roof of the DiPietro Building at 14 Francisco Boulevard and Vivian Way. Commission followed city council directive to "lay off the esthetics," in giving sign approval until a more detailed sign ordinance can be passed. Commissioners Klein and John A. Miskimen opposed.

2. Postponed to Jan. 12 decisions on architectural approval for a six-unit apartment building for John Ribiero on Clayton Street near Marin Street, while the city engineer investigates water supply and builder plans access road to building from Clayton Street.

3. Approved use permit and architectural drawings for a self-service, coin-operated car wash for Sam Busschaert at Second and C streets.

4. Postponed to Jan. 12 decision on variance request and architectural drawings for an addition to Dr. Robert Foehr's dental office building at Fifth Avenue and H Street to allow revision of plans.

5. Denied a request for modification of sidewalk plans in Avala Court subdivision on the basis that the sidewalk is needed by a resident who would lose it through modification.

6. Granted a use permit to Fairfax Laundry and Cleaners for a shop in Loch Lomond Shopping Center.

7. Granted a use permit for four studio apartments in a building with one office at Fourth Street and East Crescent Drive, planned by Florian D. Begg.

8. Approved use permit and architectural drawings for two-story office building at Fifth Avenue and Garden Lane, requested by Robert Greene.

9. Approved architectural drawings for 10-unit apartment building by E. G. Easterday at 420 Canal Street, providing back-out parking is included.

10. Approved architectural drawings for a triplex planned by Charles Kuhn on one of the last remaining lots in a planned community zone on the east side of Elizabeth Way.

Council Might 'Raise Roof' Over Design Of City Hall

The committee approach to design of a new San Rafael City Hall came under fire from city councilmen at a luncheon discussion yesterday.

The five councilmen lunched with City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen and their technical adviser on the city hall, Edward G. Welsh of Ebasco Services, to receive a report on the progress of San Rafael Architects Associated in designing the new structure.

After first expressing unhappiness over designs for what they all agreed was a too-low ceiling in the future council chambers, the councilmen went on to voice overall dissatisfaction with lack of liaison between the combine of five San Rafael architectural firms and city officials.

Complicating the problem is the councilmen's fear that demanding changes in designs will increase architectural fees, delay calling for bids, and generally inflate the cost.

"The architects haven't kept you informed; they haven't kept me informed," Welsh told the council. He said he feared actual working drawings are far along, without the council having done more than approve preliminary elevations, office layouts, and arrangement of seating in the council chambers.

What "bugged" the councilmen yesterday, particularly 6-foot 5-inch L. H. Bud Baar, was indication that the ceiling in the 52-by-44 foot council chamber may be as low as nine feet around the edges.

From there, the structure would step up by stages, to a skylight 15 feet above the floor.

Welsh said the four-foot wide strip nine feet above the floor, all around the room, was defended by the architects as necessary to bring air conditioning ductwork and other features to the chambers, across the lobby from the main City Hall, without breaking an architectural line important in their plans.

Several councilmen labelled the proposed design "tunnel" construction.

After debating whether to raise the roof, the council agreed to Mayor John F. McInnis's idea that the roofline might be preserved simply by lowering the council floor two or three feet, and asked Welsh to check into that.

There are many questions the council cannot even ask, for lack of information about the design progress, all agreed.

Since the council vetoed architects' proposals to increase the building's volume, in October, 1963, the city and Welsh have had little news of the plans' progress, they complained.

"You can't be critical of nothing," McInnis declared.

"We've got nothing to go on," Councilman Fred Jensen agreed.

The city has received the architects' $12,000 bill for a third progress payment, McInnis and Andersen pointed out.

basis of Welsh's findings, councilmen agreed.

Refuse Collection Agreement Made

Homestead Valley Sanitary District directors Monday night entered into an agreement with the Mill Valley Refuse Co. for refuse collection in the Homestead district. Rates will be as now in effect and prices are fixed for three years, said Warren I. Jacobs, board chairman.

The company previously collected refuse but without written agreement.

To the People of Marin County:

(Average Reading Time: 2 minutes, 14 seconds)

Have you ever wondered about the Surplus business? How has it changed over the years, and what is it today? After having been in business in San Rafael for over 18 years, we would like to tell you, our customer, a little about it and about your Marin Surplus Store.

We opened our store in October, 1946 at 601 Francisco Blvd. in San Rafael. At that time we were the farthest store from the center of San Rafael. Some of you will remember that the store was flooded at least once each winter, when high tides and heavy rains combined to overflow the canal. The old road to San Quentin was a few feet from our door, and in heavy rains we had to put down planks to the road. Despite the inconveniences, our customers still came in to buy.

We had opened our store with a small stock of select quality clothing, camping equipment, hardware and other merchandise, about 97% of which was Government Surplus. As the number of our customers and their demands grew we added more and more items. In 1956, we moved to a new and much larger building at 933 Francisco Blvd., where we are today. We are probably still the outermost store in San Rafael, but are only a block from the highway outlets, both north and south, and have plenty of free parking space right in front of our door.

Over the years we have become much more selective in our buying, both because we have learned from you, our customer, what you wanted and because there is more and more merchandise available to us. We compare what we call "commercial" merchandise to what is available in government surplus, and we choose the items that best fill your needs. We participate in several surplus buying groups throughout the country who are constantly alert to government surplus offerings. In inventory value, we now have more government surplus merchandise than we have ever had. "Commercial" goods come on the market and we compare both types. Very often we find the "commercial" items are more practical for civilian use than the "G.I." items.

You (and often we) are amazed by the variety of our stock. We have literally thousands of items in clothing, hardware, electrical and plumbing supplies, paint, canvas, camping goods, sporting goods, marine supplies and hardware, rainwear, rope, cable, chain, foam rubber and 1000's of other items and we keep track of it all!

You often come to us for "hard-to-find" and "out-of-season" items, not found in other stores. Consequently, you can count on us to have in stock, for example, camping goods in mid-winter and foul-weather clothing in mid-summer. We carry our stock the year-around. Those "hard-to-find" items we may not have, we will try to get for you, no matter how small. However, we do have in stock suitcase handles, tally counters, ice pitons, linen testers, "batchelor" buttons, holsters for German Lugers, coal buckets, and firemen's suspenders!

We are a small group of hard workers. We have no swivel-chair deskmen, no fancy fixtures, and are out of the high rent district. Our low overhead, when added to our cost, allows us to sell at a price that is as good or better than can be had anywhere. And I believe the growth of our business attests to this fact. Our store is clean, light and airy. All merchandise is plainly marked and displayed. You can examine items, without being pressured, or you can be promptly assisted by courteous, well-informed salespeople—as you wish.

We promise to continue giving you the best values possible and the kind of service you, our customer, deserves. We hope to grow and provide you with more items of the type you want at the right price.

To the few of you who have not yet been in our store, and to you new neighbors who have just moved into our county, we invite you to come in and look around. You will be amazed at the variety of merchandise we have on display.

Best Wishes for a Healthy and Happy New Year

Alabama's Namath Will Sign With Jets—$389,000

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The pro football players' market hit an unbelievable inflationary high today with the revelation that an American Football League team is ready to pay $389,000 for a quarterback with a bum leg.

The quarterback is Joe Namath, 6-foot-2, 190-pound bullet passer for the national champion Alabama Crimson Tide. The club with the generous bank roll is the New York Jets.

The formal signing will take place this week-end after Alabama's game with Texas in the Orange Bowl and the son of a Neaver Falls, Pa., filling station attendant, will become the highest paid football rookie of all time.

Namath's contract and attendant bonuses will double the figure of the previously highest paid college graduates — both signed this year for an estimated $200,000. They are linebacker Dick Butkus of Illinois, grabbed by the Chicago Bears, and quarterback Craig Morton of California, who went to the Dallas Cowboys.

The contract offered Namath, confirmed but not formally announced, stunned football observers, who speculated on how much higher the spiral could go. "This is a players' market," Butkus said. "It won't last, but you can't blame the boys for getting it while the getting is good."

Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, refused to be concerned over the ballooning prices being paid for talent.

"Football teams are prosperous because of sellout games and they are getting good money from television," Rozelle said. "It only proves that a club is ready to pay for a quality man."

"In our league we are paying for quality and getting it. Of the 14 first draft choices, we already have signed 10."

Bill Bidwell, owner of the NFL's St. Louis Cardinals, was the most shaken by the fantastic bidding on Namath, reported by a Cardinal spokesman as having reached $400,000.

"It was $400,000 for three years and $500,000 for five," the spokesman said. "We had to withdraw from the bidding — it got too rich."

Bidwell declined to talk about the money battle but he admitted, "we have abandoned hopes of getting Namath — we know he wants to play in New York."

Namath's ambition was to play with the New York Giants. When the Giants didn't pick him in the draft, he decided to go to the Jets.

Weeb Ewbank, the Jets' coach, wouldn't confirm the actual agreement — which couldn't be closed until Namath finishes his college career — but he said, "Namath will be the highest paid rookie in football, and we think one of the best."

Namath has been called by Alabama Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant "not only the best athlete I ever coached but the best I ever saw."

A rangy, perfectly coordinated boy, Namath is the kind of passing quarterback pro coaches dream about. He is quick and sure, able to throw a 30-yard bullet with a mere flick of the wrist. Although injured most of the season with a torn cartilage in his right knee, he completed 64 of 100 passes for 756 yards and five touchdowns.

Meanwhile, the Jets aren't worried about their huge investment. "Our surgeons tell us they can make Namath's knee as good as new," Ewbank said.

WEST GUNS TO FIRE AT EAST — This is the backfield West coach John McKay of USC will probably start Saturday against the East in the Shrine game in San Francisco's Kezar Stadium.

SPADIA WILL FIGHT TO END FOR WILSON

General Manager Lou Spadia of the San Francisco 49ers has served notice that he will fight until the end for tackle Jim Wilson of Georgia.

Spadia said that Wilson "has signed a legal contract and that contract is with the 49ers."

The Boston Patriots of the rival American Football League announced that Wilson signed with them last summer.

Spadia said the 49ers "have discussed the matter with Jim, his head coach and with University of Georgia Athletic Director Joel Eaves."

"We are prepared," Spadia said, "to defend our position, legally, but more important than that, also ethically and morally."

Warriors Lose Fifth Straight NBA Game

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The current Eastern swing by the San Francisco Warriors is beginning to look more every day like a Shakespearean tragedy.

Although it isn't exactly the end of the road, the Warriors are having a tough time selling the fact that they are the team that won the Western Division title of the National Basketball Association last season. They're in last place now.

The Warriors moved into Philadelphia to meet the New York Knickerbockers tonight as part of a doubleheader with Los Angeles meeting Philadelphia in the other game.

The St. Louis Hawks easily defeated San Francisco last night 122-104 for the Warriors' fifth straight loss and fourth consecutive beating on the road trip.

The Hawks' victory marked the coaching debut of Richie Guerin, who couldn't play, however, because of an injury. But Bob Pettit could for the first time since Dec. 10 when his back was injured. And the NBA veteran pumped in 26 points, high for the Hawks, who had six men in double figures.

Wilt Chamberlain was high point man with 35 points. But he couldn't help the Warriors overcome an 80-57 lead constructed by St. Louis in the third period.

Last season, the Warriors lost 32 games. They've lost 27 so far with the halfway mark of the season still a few games away. This nine-game road trip includes a stretch during which the Warriors play six games in six nights in five different cities.

East-West Drills Hampered By Rain

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Although the Northern California floods didn't reach San Francisco and its surroundings, East Coach Pete Elliott is beginning to think it's a disaster area anyway.

For more than a week, steady rain has fallen on the practice fields of the East and West squads as they prepare for Saturday's 40th San Francisco Shrine football game.

"I told my players it's not always like this," said Elliott, who coached at California before joining Illinois. "But they're beginning to doubt me. Isn't it ever going to stop?"

Rain was predicted again for today, which might force Elliott to once again alter his practices at Santa Clara. He has his defense running some offensive plays and the offense playing some defense.

"We had to do it that way because the boys get tired running plays," Elliott explained. "After you try to cut on pass patterns or fall down trying to run a few times, you lose your momentum."

At the West camp in nearby Palo Alto, Coach John McKay of Southern California moved his squad inside yesterday for meetings on strategy. Before that, the West worked hard for the first time on defense with Clarence Williams of Washington State making two circus interceptions.

The weather hasn't bothered Baylor's All America end Larry Elkins, who went yet another day without dropping a pass. He's caught every one thrown to him since camp opened.

Oregon State, Michigan End Rose Bowl Practice

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Oregon State and Michigan, as spry as sprinters and rarin' to go, completed workouts today for the Rose Bowl clash—with the Wolverines still listed as 11-point favorites and the Beavers not caring a hang about the odds.

The two teams, champions of the Pacific Eight and the Big Ten, rounded off 10 days of conditioning with light workouts and all members of both squads reported in tip-top shape.

"The workout we had Tuesday," said coach Tommy Prothro of the Beavers, "was the best since we came south. The whole practice was crisp and sharp on the dry field. I feel good all over."

Prothro, possibly irked by the previous day's workout that was so miserable he called it off after a few minutes, staged a secret session—with newsmen and all others barred from the field.

The Michigan team moved to the Passionist Monastery eight miles from Pasadena and they will stay there tonight and tomorrow to get away from the holiday crowds.

QBs Lead Both Offenses

The Oregon State team will remain at the swank Beverly Hilton Hotel but players mostly will be confined to their rooms after curfew hours so they won't get caught up in the New Year's Eve celebrations which sometimes start a day or two early in this area.

The centers of attraction have been quarterbacks Bob Timberlake of Michigan and Paul Brothers of Oregon State. Both operate the pass-run option to perfection and if there are any thrills in the game, they can be expected to provide the majority.

However, if the 100,000 in the Rose Bowl and the millions watching on TV like defensive play, they may see some jarring, rib-bruising tackling, too.

Cage Tourneys Head Into Finals

By United Press International

UCLA, University of San Francisco, and Oregon State appeared on their way towards major basketball tournament triumphs today, but only the Bruins made it look easy.

While the Dons and Beavers won squeakers, the nationally fifth ranked Bruins roared past third ranked Minnesota, 93-77, last night before a roaring Los Angeles Sports Arena crowd of 14,361.

That set up a final between the once-beaten Bruins, and unbeaten Utah, which took a 92-88 win over Iowa in other semi-final action.

Gail Goodrich topped the Bruins with 22 points, but coaches Johnny Wooden of the Bruins and Johnny Kundla of the Gophers both singled out UCLA forward Keith Erickson for his ball-hawking talents. Lou Hudson had 26 for Minnesota. Skip Kroeger's 27 points led Utah past Iowa and Chris Peral meshed 28 for the Hawkeyes.

In consolation action at Los Angeles, Warren Rustand hit 19 to lead Arizona past Washington, 77-63. Then, Al Young swished 32 as USC smashed Michigan State, 100-67.

Dons Just Make It

USF had to go all out at the West Coast Athletic Conference tourney to down host and defending champion San Jose State, 60-57. Joe Ellis led the Dons with 17 while S. T. Saffold had the same number for the Spartans.

USF figures to have less trouble with Santa Clara, which edged University of Pacific, 75-71, to move into the finals of the tourney for the fourth time in six years. Bob Krulish of the losers led scorers with 23.

In consolation action, St. Mary's edged Pepperdine, 72-69, and Loyola bopped Santa Barbara, 78-64, as Dick Schiendler and Bob Burns scored 21 apiece for the Lions.

Oregon State has won 23 games and lost none since the Far West classic started a Portland in 1956. But their two wins this year have been by a total of 3 points.

Beavers Win Squeaker

The Beavers last night edged Northwestern 67-65, when Jim Jarvis hit a 15-footer with four seconds to go. All five Beaver starters hit in double figures and Jarvis led the pack with 16.

Unbeaten Tennessee will give the Beavers a tough test to-night after downing Oregon, 70-63. Bill Jennings had 17 for the Jokers and A. W. Davis 18 for the winners.

In consolation action, Portland downed Purdue, 94-74, and broke a single-game scoring mark in the process. Art East-erly and Cincinnati's Powell Army topped Washington State, 59-54.

At Honolulu, the unbeaten Hawaii Marines downed previously unbeaten Los Angeles State, 103-89, and Wisconsin took the Navy Subpac, 89-65, in semi-final games. Consolation action saw Utah State nip Arizona State, in a 98-96 thriller, while Boston College flattened Hawaii, 120-74, to set a scoring mark that should stand for a while.

Rhyme Inks Contract With Dallas

DALLAS (UPI) — Jerry Rhome, the most prolific and successful college passer of the 1964 season, decided yesterday to stand in line with California's Craig Morton for a chance to replace Don Meredith as quarterback of the Dallas Cowboys.

Rhyme, who spiraled away the stigma of small-college football at the University of Tulsa earlier this month by leading his club to a Blue Bonnet Bowl victory over Mississippi, signed a pact that Cowboy General Manager Tex Schramm said runs for "several years."

The contract was believed to be a six-figure one and Schramm admitted a bonus had been thrown in.

Rhyme was also sought by the Houston Oilers, but the American Football League club withdrew from the bidding yesterday.

Houston officials were quoted as saying they "gave up" because Rhome "wouldn't make up his mind." Another official said the bidding had gotten out of hand.

With the signing of Rhome, the Cowboys have landed two of the top quarterbacks of 1964. Earlier Dallas signed its No. 1 draft choice, Craig Morton of California.

Pro Recruitment Tactics Have Improved Since Start Of AFL

Despite the dollar battle between the rival National and American football leagues for college talent, there was only one double contract signing this year. That speaks well for overall recruitment tactics of both leagues and an almost perfect standard of ethics on the part of 1964's collegians.

It wasn't always that way. When the AFL was born five years ago, frantic goal post signings followed the bowl games. Inter-league rivalry is as sharp as ever for new talent but bowl officials found no cause this year to warn pro scouts not to pester the players.

HANLEY

EVEN THE East-West training camps at Santa Clara and Stanford found it necessary to ban the pros four years ago. Lamar Hunt, multimillionaire founder of the AFL, almost got the bum's rush from the West camp in 1960 after slipping unobtrusively through the gate to watch a workout. Hunt also wanted to keep an eye on Bob Lilly, 250-pound Texas Tech center, whose services also were sought by the NFL's Dallas Cowboys.

When Babe Hollingbery, West business manager, learned that Hunt was in the stands he began a hunt for Hunt. Hollingbery had no qualms about escorting a millionaire off the premises but the only trouble was that Babe didn't know Hunt by sight any better than the gate man.

That, however, didn't deter Hollingbery in his search of the stands. Finally, Babe announced that pro football scouts were not welcome to leave. As Hollingbery started to walk away, someone pointed out Hunt to him.

BILL BARNES, head coach of the 1960 West team who had posted the ban, kept a watch on the proceedings out of the corner of his eye. As he saw Hollingbery start after Hunt, Barnes hastened to Hollingbery's side and told Babe practice was just about over, that no harm had been done.

"Whatever you say, coach," said Hollingbery who had coached the first 20 West teams. "You're the boss."

To preclude any possible repetition of the Hunt incident, Jim Owens, head coach of the 1961 West team, issued a blunt warning to the pros before the team assembled. It was Owens who proclaimed the "Don't pester the players" policy.

"APPARENTLY SOME pros seem to think this game is played for their benefit," said Owens, disdaining the diplomatic touch. "There were unpleasant incidents in 1960. We hope they won't come up again. The players are not to be pestered. Pros are not to contact the players at practice or around the dressing rooms."

"There's plenty of other time, preferably after the evening meal, for the pros to get together with boys who already have signed or haven't yet made their decisions."

Marin Quint Will Battle American River Tonight

College of Marin's rollicking Tars will go for number ten in a row tonight and their 12th win in 14 starts at 8 o'clock in the Kentfield gymnasium.

This time American River Junior College will see what it can do about ending the Marin winning streak, which started with an 83-81 overtime win over the Rivermen at the Golden Valley Conference tourney Dec. 11 in Santa Rosa.

The Tars went on to win that tournament, the Coast Conference hoop festival the following week and have rolled past three more teams since. None have given coach Cal Riemcke's men the battle they had with American River.

The Tars figure to depend as usual on guards Jay Johnson and Brad Busch for scoring punch and on center Jim Halm and forward Fred Arnold, both 6-7, for rebounding strength. Paul Pulati and 6-8 center Craig Leggett lead the American River five.

Marin's next game will be Tuesday at West Valley College in Campbell. The Golden Valley Conference campaign gets under way Jan. 9 when Yuba College visits Kentfield.

San Rafael Cagers Whip Napa 65-49

One Marin Triumph In Five Tilts

San Rafael whipped undermanned Napa 65-49 yesterday, but Redwood, Marin Catholic, Drake and Tamalpais all dropped their games as Marin County Athletic League teams resumed court action after a weeklong layoff.

Marin Catholic and Redwood went down struggling, though, while Tam was swamped by strong St. Mary's of Berkeley 63-38 on an over-whelming second half surge by the East Bay club and Drake lost to Santa Rosa 59-43.

Redwood hosted defending Tournament of Champions king Harry Ellis of Richmond and fell 60-49, while Marin Catholic bowed in triple overtime to Mission of San Francisco 50-49.

San Rafael whipped out to a 34-17 lead at halftime and coasted in to avenge an earlier loss to Napa, the Indians' only win. Coach Mike Diaz emptied his bench and 10 players scored for the Bulldogs. Tom Utermann led with 13, while Ken Erdman had 12 and Bob Rich 11.

REBOUNDS

The Bulldogs out-rebounded Napa 40-32, but they earned their big first half bulge with tight defense. San Rafael stole the ball many times and the Indians, who played only eight men because their coach split his squad for a junior varsity game, sank only four of 23 shots. San Rafael was hitting 14 for 36. Center Bob Rossi led the winners with 12 rebounds.

Marin Catholic lost a heart-breaker to Mission after leading 20-8 at the end of the first quarter. The Wildcats had a four point lead, 43-39, with just 18 seconds left in regulation time, but they blew it on a foul and a bad pass out of bounds against a full court press. Mission converted two free throws after the foul and sank a quick bucket after the turnover to tie the score.

Neither team scored in the first overtime and in the second overtime two field goals in succession by reserve guard Ben Burch enabled the 'Cats to gain a 47-47 tie. Mission then won the game on three foul shots in third extra stanza.

STARTERS OUT

Marin missed its two leading scorers, Tom Soden and Bill Shine. Soden, averaging about 15 points per game, was snowed in on a ski trip and couldn't make it back for the game. Shine is averaging 14.5 and scored seven points in the first four and a half minutes yesterday before spraining his ankle. He had to sit out the rest of the game and coach Gus Hassapakis fears he will not play for a week.

Center Brad McDonald moved to Soden's forward position and topped Marin Catholic with 16 points. His replacement at center, junior Bob Lombardi, clutched 15 rebounds and tallied seven points. Forward Dave Morrell had 13 points.

Redwood trailed Ellis 26-19 at halftime, but pulled within three points of the powerful Richmond team in the fourth period before forward Tom Bly fouled out. Bly led the Giants with 12 rebounds and scored eight points, as did Bruce McGee. Sophomore guard Kevin Wilson had 11, while Ellis forward Frank Byias led everybody with 16.

HART PLEASED

Coach Dick Hart was pleased to have center Chuck Myers available for the first time this season. Myers had been first string before the season began but hurt his back and hadn't played until yesterday. It was the first time since Nov. 25, Hart said, that all the Giants were able to see action.

The Redwood B team clipped Ellis 55-51, as guard Andre Horn set a new school B scoring record with 27 points in the 28 minute game.

Drake stayed close to Santa Rosa during the first half, trailing 14-12 at the quarter and 32-26 at halftime. The Pirates lost their chance to win in the third quarter on sloppy passing and poor defense against Santa Rosa's screening offense.

Forward Rick Henika led Drake with 21 points and guard Will Curley had 14.

Tamalpais led St. Mary's 8-7 after the first quarter and trailed only 24-22 at the half. The Berkeley club then exploded for 22 points to Tam's 10 in the third period and breezed home.

Larry Gray of Tam led all scorers with 14 points and Bob Scotlan had 12 for the winners.

ROSSI REBOUNDS—Bob Rossi (40) of San Rafael comes down with a rebound against Napa yesterday, and by the expression on his face it looks like he was really fighting for it. Rossi led the Bulldogs in rebounds with 12.

Scribe Picks Some Upsets For Major Bowl Contests

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ordering up a king-sized helping of football upsets on New Year's Day to accompany the holiday king-sized headaches:

Texas 10 Alabama 7, in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla.

Texas maintains its whammy over the six-point favorite Crimson Tide, who have yet to defeat the Longhorns in five meetings. Defense will prevail in this clash of the '63 and '64 national champs.

Nebraska 24 Arkansas 21, in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Tex.

Both teams have offenses that will make this the most interesting game on the television marathon, but Nebraska will be hungry after its final-game loss to Oklahoma and will out-root the unbeaten Razorbacks, who are six-point betting choices.

Orange Juiced Up

Syracuse 20, Louisiana State 7, in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

The Orange offense will get the better of the Tigers' defense. Fullback Jim Nance and soph speedster Floyd Little scored 25 TD's between them this year for Syracuse.

Michigan 30 Oregon State 14, in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.

This one will go according to form for the Wolverines, who are a solid 12 point choice.

Oregon State had trouble with other Big Ten foes, Northwestern and Indiana, weak sisters in the conference this season, and the West Coast team shouldn't be much of a match for the champs and quarterback Bob Timberlake.

Saturday's Upset

Oklahoma 14 Florida State 7, in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.

Florida State is favored by three points because of its "seven magnificents" in the defensive line but the Jim Grisham-Lance Rentzel ground attack for Oklahoma is good enough to penetrate them for a couple of scores—if the Sooners season-long penchant for fumbling doesn't continue.

1964 Was A Big Year For Bay Area Sports

By HAL WOOD

UPI Sports Writer

Ken Venturi won the United States Open Golf Championship; the San Francisco Warriors captured the Western Division National Basketball Association crown; Tony Lema came home with the British Open title; the Santa Clara swim club lads and lassies won something like 17 medals in the Olympic Games; and the San Francisco Seals captured the Western Hockey league title as the Western sports championship cycle shifted from Los Angeles to the San Francisco Bay Area during 1964.

It was a wonderful year for a region that had become used to losers.

GOLF

It was the season when Venturi, on the verge of being a knock out victim in the game he loved, came back to win the National Open and the "sportsman of the year" award for the United States.

It was the year that Don Schollander of the Santa Clara swim club captured four Olympic Gold medals and won the UPI's "sportsman of the world" award.

It was the year that Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif., went unheralded to England and stormed through the ranks of the world's greatest golfers to capture his first major golf championship.

It was the year that the Santa Clara swim club not only sent stars to Tokyo for the Olympic Games, but hosted the National AAU Men's and Women's Swimming Championships — and won both.

It was the year the San Francisco Warriors, weak at the gate but strong on the floor, came from far back to capture the Western Division crown of the NBA, then lose to the Boston Celtics for the over all championship.

It was the year the San Francisco Seals barely made the play offs, but then came on fast to win everything in sight.

But all the championships didn't go to the San Francisco Bay Area.

COLLEGE CHAMPS

The UCLA Bruins came up with the finest basketball team in the country, sparked by Walt Hazzard, to capture the NCAA cage crown.

This was the year, too, that Washington found itself in the Rose Bowl on Jan. 1, with a 6-4 record, and got knocked over by Illinois, 17-7. Oregon State and USC tied for the Pacific Eight crown, but the Beavers got the bid to the 1965 Rose Bowl.

RACIAL DOORS ARE OPENED FOR MEET

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Sugar Bowl opened its track meet to Negroes for the first time this year and they stole the show.

Lanky Theron Lewis breezed 400 meters in the meet record time of 46.9 yesterday, and slender Richard Stebbins took the 100 meters going away in 10.5.

But as a sheer conversation piece, the two had to share the limelight with the 5,000 meters race that ended one lap too soon.

With two laps to go, the starter fired his pistol — erroneously — signaling the final lap. The tightly-bunched runners appeared startled, then puzzled.

But there was no way to undo the error and they took off on what had suddenly become the last 400 meters.

John Camien of Kansas State Teachers of Emporia, the NAIA mile champ, caught George Scott before the final turn and scored a 10-yard victory.

None of the officials would take the blame for the error. The starter said the lap counter told him it was the last lap. The lap counter said the surveyor, who lays out the course, had erred. The surveyor said the lap counter miscounted.

Time for the 4,597.76 meters — the actual distance run — was 13:30.

Lewis, a junior at Southern University, was named the meet's top athlete for shaving two-tenths of a second off the nine-year-old meet mark set by Jesse Mashburn of Oklahoma State.

Lewis eased off in the last 30 yards when he felt a twinge in his thigh. He barely held off the torrid closing rush of Bill Calhoun of Oklahoma, also a Negro. Only inches separated the two.

The busy Lewis wasn't around to get his award. He was off to Miami where he runs in the Orange Bowl meet Jan. 1.

Stebbins, a Grambling College junior, exploded from the blocks and broke away from the field at the 50-meter point.

The 20-year-old Whippet, a gold medal winner for his leg on the U.S. Olympic sprint relay team at Tokyo, says he's pointing for a 10 flat 100 meters in 1965 and the NCAA 100-yard dash title.

Another meet standard fell in the 1600 meters relay where Oklahoma State reeled off a 3:12 effort. It clipped seven-tenths second off the record set last year by a Oklahoma State foursome.

Roger Morgan of Northeast Louisiana won the 110-meter hurdles in 14.2 for the second straight year; Bill, Cornell of Southern Illinois took the 1,500 meters in 3:53.4; and Northeast Louisiana won the 400-meters relay in 40.9.

CO-DEFENDING CAGE CHAMPS

San Rafael Is Rebuilding

By RALPH CHATOIAN

(Second in a series on prospects of Marin Athletic League basketball teams for the 1964-65 season.)

San Rafael High School is co-defending basketball champ of the Marin Athletic League, but the Bulldogs will have to build an entirely new team for this season.

This is because the first eight boys off the 1963-64 team have been graduated, leaving coach Mike Diaz with a tremendous rebuilding job. He does have six other returnees from the team, but all saw limited action last year when San Rafael won 10 of 12 league contests.

Providing the nucleus for this year, the returnees include center Bob Rossi (6-4), forward Bob Rich (6-1), forward Terry Overlid (6-2), and guards Ken Erdman (5-11), Clem Glynn (5-11) and Jim Kilgor (5-10). All six returnees are seniors.

Promoted from the junior varsity are senior forward Tom Utermann (6-2), junior forward Ed Pascoe (6-1), and junior guard Joe Cunningham (5-9).

Leading a contingent of five cagers who played Class B for San Rafael last year is Bill Pandiani, a senior guard who stands

5-5. Although short, he has a good eye and last year was the leading scorer for the "B" team.

Others up from the Bees are junior forward Jeff Allen (6-2), senior guard Jim Allen (Jeff's older brother who is five inches shorter at 5-9), senior guard Paul Schmidt (5-9), and junior guard Jim Magliulo (5-9).

As it stands now, Rossi has nailed down the starting center spot, Rich and Overlid the two forward positions, and Erdman one of the guard spots. Pandiani and Cunningham are fighting it out for the other opening guard position.

Erdman, with a good jump shot, and Rich, who hits well with a set shot from outside the key, will probably be the big scorers this season for the Bulldogs. Diaz credits Jim Allen with doing a good job in the rebounding department. "He should play a lot for us," said Diaz. He also praised the play of Utermann, but added he needs to get more consistency.

Three of San Rafael's early season losses were very close. "We're in the process of building a team," said Diaz. "By the time the league starts, we should have found ourselves."

Diaz picks Marin Catholic and Novato as the strength of the league, but is quick to add the overall picture of the league shows it to be fairly even. "It could be anyone's, but I favor Marin Catholic and Novato."

San Rafael opens its play in the M.A.L. Jan. 8, hosting Novato High School in the Bulldogs' gym. Novato is the school that is co-champ along with San Rafael, so it should be a really good game. It's scheduled to start at 8 p.m., following a preliminary game between the two Class B teams.

6,000 FEET OF FENCE

Three workers from Cyclone Fence Co. of Oakland—Gil Delmenico, Ed de Turbille, and Floyd McDaniel—install part of 6,000 feet of chain link fencing along the Coyote Creek flood control channel in Tamalpais Valley. The fence, mainly to protect children from falling into the channel, will run from Maple and Ash streets to 250 feet below Ross Drive. Installation is expected to be completed next Tuesday, said Lynn Ourso, superintendent for Freety Co. of El Cerrito, general contractor on the flood control project. (Independent-Journal photo)

Smog Device Regulations 'Confusing'

By WAT TAKESHITA

The State Department of Motor Vehicles has mailed regulations on crankcase smog control devices to some 10 million California motorists.

The regulations are causing confusion as to who must sign a smog control device affidavit on the back of the car registration form.

Those who do not have to sign the smog device affidavit include:

1. Those with private passenger cars, 1962 model or older, which did not change ownership during the calendar year 1964.

2. Those with exempt vehicles — diesel-powered vehicles, used foreign cars, and all pre-1950 models.

Those who must sign the smog device affidavit are:

1. Owners of 1963 or later model cars. (These cars come factory-equipped with the crankcase devices.)

2. Those who acquired used cars (1950 to 1962 models) during the year 1964. (Such cars had to be installed with a crankcase device at the time of change of ownership.)

Those who do not have to sign the affidavit at this time must install crankcase devices (unless they are exempt) sometime during 1965.

In order that the installations can be spaced out throughout the year, the state has devised a system whereby the last digit of the auto license number will determine installation.

If the number ends in 1, January is the month to install. If the last digit is 2, February is the month, and so forth until zero, which means October.

Lester E. Jennings Jr. and Lars F. Williamson of Corte Madera, coordinators of the Citizens for Sensible Smog Suppression, point out that the law does not spell out any penalty for failure to install the crankcase device. The only "penalty" is that a car without a crankcase device will not be re-registered for January, 1966, a year from now.

Jennings and Williamson are working to have the laws on crankcase smog devices changed during the 1965 legislative session so that all used cars can be exempted, except those factory-equipped. Jennings asked motorists to write to assemblies, state senators, and the governor, urging them to support the legislation.

U.S. Senate Aide Retiring At 85

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate parliamentarian Charles L. Watkins is retiring today after 59 years of continuous service in Senate jobs.

Watkins, 85, has been parliamentarian since 1937 when the job was created as a separate post.

Donor is A. A. Tiscornia, Sausalito and San Francisco property owner, who also gave the city a bond valued at $1,200 last year. There are no strings attached, according to City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, although Tiscornia would prefer the money be used in surveys of Marinship, where he owns property.

Tiscornia, said Brown, makes the donations for tax purposes and has made several others this year in Marin County to activities including the Boy Scouts.

Neighbors Hit Mess In Novato Subdivision

The Novato City Council last night approved the tentative map of KDN Corp.'s Kaden Park Unit 2, despite objections by neighbors to the method of development of Unit 1.

The council then ordered Lawrence A. Coleman, director of public works, and Clark M. Palmer Jr., city attorney, to take whatever action is necessary to correct drainage faults in Unit 1.

Edward L. Perea of 713 Rowland Boulevard asked the council to "restrict further development until the mess in Unit 1 is cleaned up." The rains have washed mud all over the lower streets. He blamed this on improper grading.

David O. Matson of 1415 Monte Maria said KDN Corp. had "not kept faith."

"I'm not concerned with the style and quality of houses that they are building, but I am concerned with their poor grading," Matson said.

Gerald P. King of 5 Rowland Court complained that he had a foot of water under his house which had percolated up through the disturbed soil.

When Mayor Robert D. Carrow asked for a show of hands of those protesting, 15 responded.

Coleman said he had city crews cleaning up the debris and had billed the developer. The council directed him to continue to clean up the mud and told Palmer to see what legal steps could be taken, including "abating it as a nuisance" if necessary and possible.

Kaden Park was not the only place with flood problems.

Harold J. Maxwell of 1133 Fourth Street complained that drainage from new apartments built by P. J. Tarrant on Romar Court was dumping water "all across Fourth Street."

"I have an agreement between the city and Tarrant signed last July where the underground drains were to be installed on both sides of Romar Court. They have been installed on only one side," Maxwell said.

The council ordered Coleman to report on the matter at its Jan. 12 meeting.

The Novato City Council Also:

1. Approved a freeway maintenance agreement with the State Division of Highways whereby Novato will maintain the center strip on a short portion of the access to the overpass south of Hamilton Air Force Base.

2. Approved an agreement with Whitlow, Hoffman and Albritton, engineers of San Rafael, to do the engineering for the Diablo Avenue bridge.

Leadership Appraised By Citizen

Mrs. John Machado gave the Novato City Council a citizen's appraisal of its work last night.

When she finished, City Administrator J. Julien Baget said he agreed with her on many points, and Mayor Robert D. Carrow asked for a list of her findings for council study.

Mrs. Machado, who lives at 1412 Dawes Street, has often been critical of the council's operations.

She asked for a report on the walkways on the Warner Creek and Virginia Avenue bridges. Walkways for both were included in this year's budget, but have not been built, she said.

She suggested citizen workshops study the new master plan.

She reminded the councilmen that all but Mayor Carrow had pledged in their campaigns to obtain a park for the city, but had not done it.

She proposed that all special service districts be incorporated in the department of public works and called for better planning for South Novato Boulevard and Novato Boulevard.

She suggested the city seal be placed on all city vehicles.

Sausalito Given No-Strings Gift

Sausalito city councilmen are expected to accept a gift of a bond valued at about $1,400 at the council meeting at 8 p.m. next Tuesday.

Donor is A. A. Tiscornia, Sausalito and San Francisco property owner, who also gave the city a bond valued at $1,200 last year. There are no strings attached, according to City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, although Tiscornia would prefer the money be used in surveys of Marinship, where he owns property.

Tiscornia, said Brown, makes the donations for tax purposes and has made several others this year in Marin County to activities including the Boy Scouts.

READING TO her children is one of Mary Minton's favorite activities. Surrounded by some of the books she has bought, she reads one of them, "Little House on the Prairie" by Laura Ingalls Wilder, to her daughter Jennifer. Sitting in her lap is Jonathan, the baby of the family. She likes this kind of book because it is a true story about pioneer life in this country.

FUN FOR ME, TOO

Busy Wife Avoids Suburban Syndrome

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Mother of four young children, weaver and publisher of a bulletin for weavers, and buyer of children's books—these are just the major occupations which keep Mary Minton busy.

And at Christmas time the John Minton's home in Tamalpais Valley was busier than ever, for Mary wove headbands for gifts and for sale and bought children's books suitable for selling as gifts at the Minton's art shop in Sausalito.

Furthermore she and the two older girls silk screened their own Christmas cards.

The children are Torri, 8, Jennifer, 6, Elisabeth, 3, and Jonathan, 1.

The Minton's is a child-centered home, and Mary has some interesting opinions on this subject.

"I THINK IT is more important for children to be read to and have intellectual stimulation through introduction to all sorts of ideas than to live in a spotless house," she said.

"And, let's face it, it's more fun too for me than scrubbing floors."

There is no television set to keep the children inactive and practically hypnotized. Instead they are encouraged to work with clay, paint, draw and eventually write their own little stories. Emphasis is on individual creativity.

"IN OUR SOCIETY," said Mary, "we begin to organize our children before they are out of diapers and start pushing them into group situations when what they need is to be let alone to develop their own resources. The child has to learn to get along with himself before he can get along with others."

Yet Mary, who still looks like a coed, is no "mere housewife."

"I'm all in favor of the feminine revolution," she says. "Rearing children to be fine people is just great, but the mother is a person too. She needs different experiences when children are growing up so that she is still a whole person when they are grown."

"After Torri was born I was going stir-crazy. There isn't much labor involved in caring for one baby—so I studied weaving at the College of Marin and have been doing ever since."

She eventually purchased her own loom and became proficient enough to weave the cloth for a coat she made herself. She sews almost all the clothes for herself and the girls. Mary belongs to the Marin Society of Artists and has exhibited some of her pieces in its shows.

"The hobby can be very expensive, but it doesn't have to be," she said. "I have seen women using seed pods, colored tissue paper and wrapping twine create lovely things on very simple equipment."

HER NEXT ACTIVITY was starting her bulletin for weavers.

"When I was studying weaving at the College of Marin I found that most of us didn't really know what was going on in weaving," she said. We learned about things after they happened."

In 1960 she started her "Handweaver's Bulletin" consisting of two or three mimeographed pages issued once a month.

Except for the mimeographing, she does everything from gathering the news to cutting the stencils and assembling and folding the sheets for mailing. At present she has 250 subscribers all over Northern California with some in Texas, Arizona and Oregon. She is proud of the fact that the library of the California College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland is one of her subscribers.

All of this is largely a service, for she makes only enough to take weaving courses and buy a few books.

"One of the dividends," she insists, "has been making wonderful friends and meeting fascinating people who are not necessarily my own age. They are women of all ages."

"It gets me out of the suburban syndrome."

For three years Mary was correspondent for the "Handweaver and Craftsman" published in New York.

WHEN IT COMES to the writing for her bulletin Mary is no amateur.

She was graduated from the University of California with an A.B. degree in journalism and worked for one year between her sophomore and junior years and during vacations for the "Riverside Press" in her home town of Riverside.

After graduation, for one year she was magazine editor for the Independent-Journal, where she met her husband John, who was city editor. In three months they were married.

When they started their Creative Arts venture Mary worked right along with John. Today she still works at the store one afternoon a week and this is when she is occupied with the details of buying children's books.

SHE IS ESPECIALLY interested in books with an interracial viewpoint.

"At present a few interracial books are available," she commented. "Previously few showed anything but blue-eyed, blonde children. I'm glad the State Board of Education is beginning to wake up and become concerned with reading texts having a more realistic depiction of racial groups."

Her interest in inter-racial problems led her to add to her many activities working whenever she can at the Marin City Day Care Center.

"I read to the children and talk to them to try to give them some extra attention," she explained.

"I feel very strongly about this. It is a disgrace that in the richest county in California there are such substandard conditions at the center, including building and equipment."

"If it weren't for a group of dedicated women, it would be even worse than it is."

"This group acts. The women don't just sit around and read bylaws and form committees the way women's organizations do. Many women get carried away with forming committees and forget they are formed to do something. I admire particularly the women who are doing volunteer work in libraries."

MARY HAS YET another interest she expects to develop.

"Within the next year I plan to buy a small hand printing press—no, not to print my bulletin. Everything about books fascinates me, particularly the mechanics such as type faces and designs."

"I may print some of the little stories the children write."

Yes, there is a secret as to why Mary is able to maintain such a varied and busy schedule.

"I couldn't do any of this," she says, "if I didn't have such an understanding and enthusiastic husband. He even likes to cook and is very good with the children and shares my ideas concerning their upbringing."

Television Helps Tutor Students

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Imagine 60 persons trying to look inside someone's mouth at once.

Dental schools agree it can't be done and finally have devised a method to demonstrate fixing a tooth smaller than a fingernail to dozens of students simultaneously.

Dentists at the New York State University at Buffalo are using television cameras to peer into the patient's mouth and act as the eyes of students. The mobile camera magnifies details about 10 times and transmits the dental surgery to 14 classroom television sets.

Director Dr. Robert E. Pantera said television helps lessen the time students must spend in class before working on patients. He said many now begin clinical practice during sophomore rather than junior years.

The televised broadcasts at the university — the only state-owned dental school in New York — have been well received.

Pantera said. Because it is possible to close in and record fine details, students are better informed, ask more questions and are more attentive.

The professor gives a running commentary as he performs the video-taped operation. Later, hours of repetitive steps are chopped from the filmed version to condense lengthy demonstrations.

He said television can't replace experience, but it helps "to show the student what he should expect" in private practice. He said the televised demonstrations become invaluable aids whenever a dentist hits a snag in a supposedly-routine job and students are able to watch him work it out.

New Unit Aids

Troubled Medics

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An unusual organization has been formed here to help doctors and psychiatrists with mental problems.

Called "Physicians Anonymous," the organization is backed by the San Francisco Medical Society.

An advisory group will contact physicians believed to have emotional problems and offer to help them engage in a self-help plan.

"Doctors, being people, have the same problems and burdens as their patients — even more of them," said Dr. John B. Schaupp, society president.

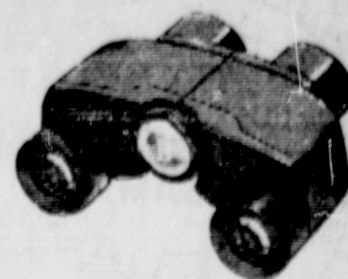

"The committee's work will be strictly confidential. The important thing is that the medical profession here will now have a group they can contact when it's noticed that one of their colleagues is continuously acting strangely."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Look For Simple Way To Play Hand Of Bridge In A Game

California by flying west across the United States, but some people might prefer to fly eastward across Europe and Asia, thus reaching the West Coast from the other direction.

The same people must be the ones who play a bridge hand the hard way.

The easy way to make six spades is to refuse the first diamond trick. West must switch to a different suit since a diamond continuation would give you a trick with the jack of diamonds.

TOP HEARTS

You cash the top hearts, ruff a heart in dummy, cash the top clubs, ruff a club, get back to dummy with a trump to ruff another club, and then draw East's last trump. By this time dummy's last club is good, and you can lead a diamond to the ace to reach that last club.

Nothing hard about this, and your only problem is to cash your tricks in the safest order.

You should probably draw two trumps first. Then lead out two clubs and a club ruff. Then ruff a heart in dummy, and finally ruff a second club. Any reasonable sequence of plays will work.

HARD WAY WORKS

As the cards lie, you can make the slam even if you take the first trick in dummy with the ace of diamonds. Cash the top hearts, ruff a heart in dummy, and lead out all of the trumps.

Your last five cards are a trump, two diamonds and two clubs. West and the dummy must each save three clubs and two diamonds.

At this point West must discard before dummy.

MUST SAVE

West must save his clubs and must therefore discard the ten of diamonds.

You then throw a club from dummy and lead a diamond to give up a trick to West's unguarded queen. You take the rest of the tricks with dummy's high clubs, and your own jack of diamonds.

The hard way is more spectacular, but it plays hob with your partner's blood pressure.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Dec. 30, the 365th day of the year with one to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Mercury. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:
In 1853, the U.S. purchased the land south of the Gila River in southern Arizona and New Mexico—a deal known as the "Gadsden Purchase."

In 1903, more than 585 persons were killed in a fire in the Iriquois Theater in Chicago.

In 1947, King Michael of Rumania abdicated, claiming he was forced out by local Communists aided by the Russians.

In 1959, President Dwight D. Eisenhower called off the ban on U.S. nuclear tests.

A thought for the day — American writer Ernest Hemingway said: "Prose is architecture, not interior decoration, and the baroque is over."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast & Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a minus sign (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Light-face type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

"Now, make me a newspaper by tonight"

Tall order . . . since a complete newspaper such as the Independent-Journal is at once the most complex yet lowest-priced product that can be made in one day.

Every day a new "model" . . . delivered by nightfall. To do this job against the clock—

- our 18 reporters comb the county, observing, interviewing, phoning, writing, getting the facts for you.
- thousands of AP and UPI newsmen check the world for you, put its pulse on the wire.
- teletypes chatter some 120,000 words to us, from as close as Mill Valley, as far away as Capetown.
- rolls of paper, each 850 lbs., move in from Canada and the Northwest.
- electronic impulses turn into photographs on a machine—the world in black and white, caught in action.
- the managing editor watches for the big stories, gauging the importance of each, overseeing the editorial "construction" of the paper, from content to design.
- pressmen feed the giant press with ink and paper—a taste of what's to come.
- "Circulation" readies for the job of distributing the paper, via 700 newspaperboys, to two out of three homes in the county.
- experts set type for news, for ads—enough in one day to fill a good-sized book.
- the retail advertising staff, 10 strong, contacts almost every business in the county . . . planning campaigns, offering merchants professional service in copywriting, layout and merchandising.
- the city editor "feels" for the news on a hundred fronts, hands out assignments, shaping the news force to the shape of events.
- engravers work their chemical magic, placing print and picture on metal.
- the women's editor and staff of 5 molds food and fashions, social doings, meetings, school events, into a women's world.
- syndicates send in both national and world-wide features—columns, comics, cartoons.
- specialists "make up" the paper, designing every page of news and ads.
- the art department creates illustrations, layouts, designs, cartoons.
- photographers race the news throughout the county, clicking the visual happenings of Marin today.
- ink for the press arrives not in bottles but tank trucks.

- color plates and color inks are being readied for ads, special editions, covers—all to brighten your reading eye.
- sports "jump" in the typewriters of the sports department and Willie Mays leaps up into a headline.
- "Classified" is setting up the county's daily market place, and the phone rings with "wanted" and "for sale."
- headlines are being written against deadlines—and the tight confines of space.
- vital statistics are being compiled; weather and stock reports are coming in.
- the mechanical superintendent moves the copy through a maze of linotypes, electronic typesetters and the precise hands of men who literally know type up-side down.
- the library is digging up background data for stories, filing photos, micro-filming each edition of the newspaper.
- legal ads get eagle-eyed checking for accuracy.
- orders are coming in from the nation's advertising agencies with mats for advertisements—everything from autos to ant spray.
- issues become the tissue of editorials—the reasoned interpretation of events.
- proofreaders scan every line of news and advertising trying to hold errors to a minimum against the pressure of time.
- letters to the editor are being read for possible publication.
- the dispatch office is moving ads into production—checking size, type, mats, insertion dates, art, photos—a hundred elements.
- our national representatives are meeting with ad agencies and advertisers in New York, Detroit, Chicago—a dozen cities—telling them about Marin County and its newspaper.
- special contributors' columns on fishing, baseball and many others are being processed.
- Marin Magazine is being dummied; stories developed for the Saturday edition—picturing life in Marin.
- the business office moves against a mountain of financial and administrative detail.
- stereotypers cast the weighty cylinders for the big press—the final imprint of the news on metal.
- last minute news comes through and the front page changes under the expert fingers of typographers and the eye of the editor.

Vote Challenge Case Dismissed

MARTINEZ (AP) — A challenge on the accuracy of a system of electronic vote counting used in the November election in Contra Costa County was dismissed Monday after a comparison with a manual count of 5,000 ballots.

The recount was asked in the 2nd supervisorial district.

The manual count indicated a 10-vote gain for the winner, Al Dias. This showed an error ratio of 1.1 per cent in the electronic system. Election supervisors said the error ratio in manual counts is estimated at from 3 to 7 per cent.

New Data Processing Course Will Start

A new course, data processing and computer systems, has been scheduled by the Tamalpais High School District evening school for the winter quarter which opens next Monday.

The class will be held on the Sir Francis Drake High School campus, San Anselmo, and taught by Lou Artiano, data processing programmer for Marin County schools.

The capital of Jordan, Amman has a well-preserved Roman theater, still used for entertainments. It is a relic of the time the city was known as Philadelphia and was an important stronghold in Greco-Roman times.

This Sailor Is Knee-Deep In Mud Of Antarctica

Arthur B. Roscoe would find much mud in evidence if he were to pay a winter visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Roscoe of 310 Deer Island Road, Novato.

But he's no better off. For he's knee-deep in summer mud of Antarctica, where he is stationed

Emergency Generator At Hospital

A 10-kilowatt emergency generator has been obtained by San Rafael General Hospital to give fullest safety in the operating room.

It is now being installed. The job should be completed within about 30 days, according to administrator Arthur G. Burns, provided the switching equipment can be obtained promptly.

The generator's function is to stand by to flash into action at any time the regular supply may fail.

Up to now the hospital's standby equipment has been battery activated, with limited operating time.

The new generator was acquired at a bargain price from state surplus property, Burns said. San Rafael General Hospital is eligible for such property because of its operation by a non-profit foundation.

Mayors To Be On Radio Show

Events of 1964 and forecasts for 1965 will be discussed by four Marin County mayors and a former mayor on Radio Station KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" from 9 and 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Guests of moderator Kitty Oppenheimer will be Mayor John F. McInnis of San Rafael, Mayor Gordon W. Strawbridge of Tiburon, Mayor Robert D. Carrow of Novato, Mayor Michael Worum of Mill Valley, and city councilman-former Mayor Arthur W. Smith of San Anselmo.

Listeners may telephone questions to the mayors during tomorrow's broadcast, which will be repeated from a recording at 12:30 p.m. Sunday.

United States Presidents are not immune to arrest. President Ulysses S. Grant, charged with speeding in his carriage, forfeited $20 bond.

as a Navy storekeeper first class.

The main difference, according to his parents, is that Roscoe will find things even tougher after awhile.

"We all send letters to Art as often as possible now," said Mrs. Roscoe, "because he will not be able to get mail after March because of winter weather conditions."

Roscoe shared Christmas letters and packages with his parents, as well as his wife Edith and their six children in Holyoke, Mass. Despite all the mud at both ends of the communication line, air mail letters can travel in only three days between Novato and McMurdo Sound, where Roscoe is serving.

Mrs. Roscoe said her son volunteered to go in September to Antarctica for a year and when he returns he may have his choice of naval bases.

"We hope he'll come to California," she added.

The senior Roscoes came to California from Springfield, Mass., four years ago.

Judge Puts Halt To Rail Worker Strike In South

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge has ordered firemen to end their strike against the Southern Railroad. A union official said early today members have been ordered to lift their picket lines and return to work.

"I have notified all of our local chairmen to remove the picket lines and terminate the strike of our members as required by the court order," said J. W. Jennings, vice president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Jennings said the union had been served with the restraining order issued last night in Columbus, Ga., by U. S. Dist. Judge J. Robert Elliott.

The union claimed a sudden strike on Southern's 8,100 miles in 13 states and the District of Columbia early yesterday when the railroad began to operate some yard and freight engines without firemen.

The Louisiana Purchase of 1803 added 830,000 square miles to the United States and almost doubled its size, National Geographic says. For $15 million, Napoleon parted with all French lands from the Mississippi Delta to modern Montana.

The plan, according to chairman Frank L. Lawson, will mean retirement pay of about 50 per cent of a man's salary. Roger Staubach Is Man Of The Year

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — After careful consideration, my television man of the year is Navy quarterback Roger Staubach, who last Friday rendered a service to anti-organization men everywhere, no matter what their line of work.

Staubach's contribution occurred in an unlikely place: The North-South All-Star Shrine football game in the Orange Bowl at Miami, a contest presented by ABC-TV. The bare facts, from an insignificant football point of view, are that he replaced a much-publicized Tulsa quarterback named Jerry Rhome and spectacularly brought the South back from a 30-6 deficit to a 30-30 tie.

The North eventually won, 37-30, but that is also insignificant as opposed to Staubach's triumph for the free spirit of sportsmen in a sport that, like everything else, has become increasingly mechanized, cash-oriented and specialized in recent years.

Once upon a time, before teenage athletes had lawyers and accountants, football was a game. Perfection as an all-around soloist had not yet taken place to the creeping socialism of the gridiron, a system under which the outstanding player is trained and polished to become a specialist in a given slot—offense or defense — on a machine-tooled professional football organization.

During last Friday's game, an ABC-TV commentator reflected this new thinking when Staubach, at the passing position, ran with the ball, and ran, and ran, and was shaken up. The commentator was, at first, not overly impressed with Staubach's performance; he explained that the pros don't like to risk an injury to a refined investment.

Well, this, of course, was a college game. But many of the players in it were pro prospects. Staubach, on the other hand, is going into the Navy, he said, for four years—and then, well, who knows? At any rate, the football fan who has recently been swamped with the technics of the gridiron business suddenly, in this game, was treated not to a mechanized athlete doing what his slot dictated, but to a magnificent and inspirational performer who picked up a bedraggled team and carried it on his back.

Clothing, Food Collected For Flood Victims

Clothing, food and other items for victims of the Northern California and Oregon floods are being collected through an impromptu neighborhood drive launched by Don Bennett, 3 Harbor Drive, Corte Madera.

In his driveway Bennett has placed a large sign, urging passers-by to "donate to flood victims" and instructing contributors to place their gifts in nearby cartons.

"People were coming by up to 9 last night," reported Bennett, also known as "The Wanderer" on Radio KTIM. "One fellow brought in five sports jackets he couldn't wear any more." Bennett said other donations range from blankets through medicine cabinet items to canned food.

The Salvation Army will pick up the collected donations tomorrow for its flood relief program, Bennett added.

It takes nature from 500 to 1,000 years to make an inch of good topsoil. But it can wash away in a single night.

He's Fighting Malaria In Thailand

U.S. Works To Stamp Out Disease

A Salinas man, home on leave from a job as malaria control adviser in Thailand, is spending the holidays at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Blaque Thorman, 817 Los Colindas Road, Terra Linda.

He is Merrill A. Wood, 38, an eradication specialist for the United States Agency for International Development.

When Wood returned to this country on Thanksgiving Day, he had completed his first two-year tour of duty on a program which seeks to wipe out malaria in Thailand in seven years.

ONE OF 10

He is one of 10 Americans whose job is to provide technical and administrative advice to 5,000 Thai employed by their government in the program, financed jointly by the Thai government and the World Health Organization.

Run by the State Department, the AID program is scheduled to phase out its role in the eradication project in 1966, leaving it in the hands of local doctors, technicians and health officials.

An initial period of investigation was followed by a phase which involves heavy DDT spraying of every house once or twice a year for three or four years. This is intended to wipe out the anopheles mosquito, carrier of the dread disease.

GETTING RESULTS

Proof that it is already bringing results comes in statistics from the years 1951 through 1961. During that time, total yearly cases fell from two million to 200,000, and deaths dropped from 50,000 to 4,000.

Once the "attack phase" ends, people who still have the disease will be cured with drugs. Then, regular local health services will help to prevent further outbreaks.

A graduate of University of California at Davis, Wood worked for a commercial insect control firm and the Monterey County Mosquito Abatement District before joining the USAID program in 1962.

His wife and 9-year-old daughter, Wendy, 9, accompanied him when he went to Thailand in November, 1962.

Mrs. Wood returned Aug. 1 on a year's home leave, and is spending it in Terra Linda with her mother. Wendy will complete this school year at Bernard Hoffman School.

Wood is unsure of what his future assignments may be, since much of it depends on what Congress authorizes between now and the time his second tour of duty ends in two years.

He is sure, however, that the work there has been an interesting part of his life. While it "has been frustrating at times," he says, he has found the people easy to get along with and has enjoyed his role in helping to combat a disease which ravaged Southeast Asia for centuries.

Burns Predicts Higher Taxes

FRESNO (AP)—Hugh Burns, president pro tempore of the State Senate, said Monday Californians can expect to pay higher taxes.

Burns told a service club California needs to raise $100 million more this year than present sources of revenue can provide.

He said the probable sources of the new revenue will be the state income tax, the sales tax and a two-cent per pack increase on cigarettes.

The senator estimated an increase on cigarettes alone would raise $60 million. He also said he personally favored broadening the base of the sales tax by adding food and prescription drugs.

Burglaries Net $1,100 In Losses

Losses totalling more than $1,100 were suffered in two burglaries reported to San Rafael police Monday.

First report came from Richard C. Bottarini of Bottarini and Ratto Auto Upholstery, 825 Fourth Street, who said he found the rear door open, and $633.46 in cash, merchandise and checks missing, when he arrived for work Monday.

Taken, police said, were $174.20 in cash $304.26 worth of checks, a $46 case of whiskey, a $109 camera and 58 blank checks.

Second break-in was reported by Sylvia Ann Gern of 66 Fair Drive, who said she found the home she shares with another woman broken into when she arrived home from work at 5:30 p.m. Monday.

She and Mary M. Clark listed their losses at $547.50. Stolen were a television set, radio, camera, and other items.

Scalp Is Cut In Auto Crash

Harry C. Kirkhart, 51, of San Francisco emerged with a bleeding scalp from his car after a two-car collision on Highway 101 near the Irwin Street off-ramp in San Rafael about 9 p.m.

His wife, emerging unhurt, said to him, "I told you we were nowhere near Sunnyvale."

Kirkhart was treated for the scalp cut at Marin General Hospital. Uninjured, besides Mrs. Kirkhart, was the driver of the second car, Mary Lou Clay, 18, of 315 Ironstone Court, Marinwood.

Teh California Highway Patrol reported Kirkhart tried to make a U-turn on the highway and his car was hit by Miss Clay's northbound auto.

Sausalito Trustees Hear Tax Forecast

Sausalito School District trustees Monday night heard that the tentative 1965-66 budget is $830,00 and the tax rate is expected to be increased by one cent.

Supt. Marcus F. Davis submitted the preliminary budget.

The board postponed until Jan. 11 discussion of the tax rate and decision as to whether the board will request a bond issue for construction and improvement of school sites. An election to set a maximum general tax rate will be necessary since the present rate of $2.25 per $100 assessed valuation terminates next June. If no action were taken, the rate would then drop back to 90 cents.

The district this year assessed at $2.23. This year's budget is $2.04 for general purposes and a total rate, with override tax, $786,000.

Checks Charge To Higher Court

Gay LaVonne Montague, 19, of 339 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo, must appear in Marin County Superior Court next Monday to answer four counts of passing forged checks.

After a preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court Monday, Judge Harold J. Haley ordered her to answer the charges. A fifth charge, regarding a check she did not sign, was dropped.

She was arrested by San Rafael police after allegedly passing checks written on San Rafael General Hospital and "signed" by hospital administrator Arthur Burns.

Two Girls Hurt In Auto Crash

Two girls were hurt at 12:05 a.m. Tuesday when their car skidded in heavy rain, on Highway 101 just south of Corte Madera, crashing into the rear of a car parked on the highway shoulder.

In good condition at Marin General Hospital were driver Mildred Ann Lindsey, 18, of 400 Canal Street, San Rafael, with a cut head, and passenger Joanne E. Avilla, 18, of 247 D Street, San Rafael, with a bruised right shoulder and a cut face and head.

The California Highway Patrol reported the Lindsey car was northbound when it skidded across the highway and hit an abandoned car registered to Frank J. Bogdal, Box 3056, Hamilton Air Force Base, pushing the empty car off the road and down an embankment.
